A Black Empathic Approach to Psychotherapy

Growing from Rage to Compassion

Isha McKenzie-Mavinga

This book presents the concept of a black Empathic Approach, an experiential model used as a means of developing powerful feelings associated with racism, such as fear, guilt, and rage, into a useful THERAPEUTIC tool for healing the intersectional impact of anti-black racism and associated oppressions. This book is intended for therapists, coaching, support workers, social workers, training institutes, and anyone else attempting to support individuals and groups impacted by racism.

2ND EDITION

A Therapist's Guide to Child Development

The Extraordinarily Normal Years

Edited by Dee C. Ray University of North Texas, USA

A Therapist's Guide to Child Development gives therapists and counselors the basics they need to understand their clients in the context of development and to explain development to parents. The chapters take the reader through the various physical, social, and identity developments occurring at each age, explaining how each stage of development is closely linked to mental health and how that is revealed in therapy. As an aid to practitioners, this book matches developmental ages with appropriate, evidence-based mental health interventions.

Affect, Consciousness and Self

The View from the Bottom of the Mind

Daniel Hill

Series: Relational Perspectives

This book argues that mental life is organized by and around affect. It proposes a clinical model for understanding how affect influences states of consciousness and self. It illustrates how, from moment to moment, affect determines the world we know, how we are disposed to being in it, and our capacity to function in it. Drawing on psychoanalysis, attachment theory, interpersonal and affective neurobiology, and traumatology, this book offers a fresh perspective on the importance of affect for psychoanalysts and psychodynamic psychotherapists.

4TH EDITION

Aging and Diversity

Social and Community Contexts of Aging

Lisa Wagner University of San Francisco, San Francisco, CA, USA Chandra M Mehrotra, Man Guo

In this new and fully revised edition of Aging and Diversity, Lisa Wagner, Chandra Mehrotra, and Man Guo address key topics in diversity and aging, discussing how the aging experience is affected by not only race and ethnicity but also gender, religious affiliation, socioeconomic status, rural–urban community location, and sexual orientation and gender identity. Taking this broad view of human diversity allows the authors to convey some of the rich complexities facing aging populations—complexities that provide both challenges to meet the needs of a diverse population of elders and opportunities to learn how to live in a pluralistic society.

An Intersectional Guide for Male Survivors of Sexual Abuse and Their Allies

Masculinity Reconnected

Jeremy Sachs

Few experiences carry more shame, stigma, and misunderstanding than the life-altering trauma of sexual abuse. Men who experience sexual abuse and rape, often find themselves marginalised and isolated, yet there are few resources available for them or those who support them. Aimed at male survivors and those who support them—counsellors, psychotherapists, social workers, family members, and loved ones—this book offers guidance and hope for navigating a path to healing.

2ND EDITION

Art and Social Interaction

How College Students Spark Creativity, Purpose, and Joy in Institutional Settings

Judith Peck

This second edition expands upon a program that teaches specially designed interactive visual arts activities to students to then share with individuals in jails, nursing homes, psychiatric facilities, domestic abuse shelters, and youth care centers. Delivering everything needed to set up the course in any liberal arts college, the book offers approaches for diverse populations covering planning and execution, aesthetic and humanistic objectives, projected outcomes, and methods of evaluation. By adopting this manual, colleges can provide students with education relevant to their lives and potential careers while providing a unique service to social service institutions.

Intense emotions — whether your own or your child's — can make it incredibly difficult to be the parent you want to be. This book is designed to help you become a more emotionally agile parent so you can better navigate whatever emotional storms you inevitably encounter. Packed with real-life examples and step-by-step techniques, this book supports parents of infants to teens in creating a more harmonious home by becoming their ideal, most emotionally adept selves. It also serves as a valuable resource for educators and mental health professionals seeking to help lighten the heavy load of parenthood.

Enchanting the Unconscious

Jung's Reception in Great Britain, The Red Book and his First English Seminars, 1919 and 1920

Diane Finiello Zervas

This original volume explores Jung's earliest English seminars, held in 1919 and 1920, in relation to the impact of Liber Novus and The Red Book and his new esoteric and esoteric concepts of analytical psychology created during the Great War. Enchanting the Unconscious is an important and timeless contribution to Jungian history and our understanding of early formulations of Jung's conceptual model of the psyche, making it of great interest to Jungian analysts, analytical psychologists, students of Jungian history, and general readers interested in exploring Jung's earliest teaching seminars previously undocumented or distorted by hearsay.

Enhancing Women's Wellbeing During Matrescence, Motherhood, and Perinatal Transitions

An Evidence-based Guide for Occupational Therapists

Edited by Hannah Slootjes La Trobe University, Australia

Guided by research and occupational therapy practices, this evidence-based text maps how occupational therapists and the allied health collective can holistically promote women's health, wellbeing, and self-efficacy during matrescence – the bio-psycho-social-political-spiritual-developmental journey and rite of passage of mother-becoming. A much-needed addition to the perinatal care field, this essential guide is tailored for occupational therapy, mental health and other healthcare practitioners and postgraduate students working in perinatal health and matrescence.

Essays on Integrative Psychotherapy

Developmental and Relational Perspectives

Richard G. Erskine

This book is a distinctive collection of essays on the theory and methods of a developmentally-based, relationally-focused integrative psychotherapy. In an easy-to-read style, Richard Erskine elaborates on a relationally-focused psychotherapy for acute and cumulative neglect, dissociation, alcoholism, obsession, prolonged grief, as well as psychotherapy with couples. Essays on Integrative Psychotherapy vividly illustrates the intersubjective struggle of clients who engage in the schizoid process of relational withdrawal and live in loneliness, and will be essential reading for psychotherapists and psychoanalysts in practice and in training.

Field Perspectives in Clinical Practice

A Dialogue between Relational Psychoanalysis, Post-Bionian Psychoanalysis, and Gestalt Therapy

Edited by Gianni Francesetti, Michela Gecele, Paolo Migone

Series: Psychoanalysis in a New Key

This book is the outcome of a fruitful dialogue between relational psychoanalysis, neo-Bionian psychoanalysis, and Gestalt therapy on a contemporary growing edge of clinical practice: field theory. Clinical issues are complex phenomena—they cannot be separated from social and cultural changes. Suffering, clients, and therapists change over time, and with them so do the needs and theoretical approaches of clinical professionals, so as to be able to update and adjust care practices. With multiple professional perspectives and essential clinical material, this is key reading for psychoanalysts and psychotherapists.

Fighting for Love: Journal of a Training Analysis

Marianne Lovink Goldsmith

Fighting for Love: Journal of a Training Analysis is a unique account of an eight-year psychoanalysis, journaled and retrospectively annotated from the patient's perspective in the aftermath of an unexpected and frightening dissociation. This book tells the story of that analysis in two parts. Part One places the analysis in its dynamic and historical context. Part Two is an edited version of Lovink Goldsmith's original journal with retrospective and expository comments inserted, documenting the evolution of the transference and the relationship with her analyst. This book will resonate with anyone who has experienced trauma or who treat its aftermath.

Lacanian Perspectives on Jealousy

Edited by Carmen Wright

Series: The Centre for Freudian Analysis and Research Library (CFAR)

A great effort has been made in contemporary Western culture to move beyond jealousy in our private lives. This collection takes the temperature of jealousy today – how does it show up in the clinic? Does this differ from how it used to? What can be said of how jealousy functions both psychically and socially? This book is for anyone interested in psychoanalysis, be they readers or historians of psychoanalysis, or clinicians looking for ways to approach jealousy in their practice. It is also for anyone who knows what it is to suffer jealousy, which if Freud was right, is most of us.

Meditative Psychotherapy and Psychoanalysis

Pathways to Healing and Transformation

Jeffrey B. Rubin

Dr. Jeffrey Rubin's work—the culmination of four decades immersed in psychoanalysis and Eastern mind-body disciplines—introduces a unique method uniting these wisdom traditions. While both aim to alleviate suffering, their attempts at integration often remain superficial. Rubin demonstrates how therapy and meditation compensate for each other's blind spots, providing richer understanding and opening unexpected pathways to healing and transformation. These works create a powerful resource for therapists, spiritual seekers, and anyone interested in personal growth, offering a natural path to psychological healing and a more meaningful life.

Perversity, Pornography, and the Psychology of the Male Species

An Overdue Rethinking of Robert Stoller's Gender Theories

Richard Tuch

This book presents an overview of present-day psychoanalytic thinking about the perverse spectrum: perverse thinking (disavowing reality), perverse modes of relating (manipulating others for one's own gain at the other's expense), and perverse character structure (toying with another's sense of reality), culminating in a clinical exploration of the challenges associated with treating patients who manifest perverse transference reactions. With fascinating clinical vignettes and a deep understanding of the source material, this is key reading for psychoanalysts and psychotherapists working with men.

Psychological Growth After Trauma

Insights from Phenomenological Research

Edited by Simon Wharne New School of Psychotherapy and Counselling, London, UK

Series: The Routledge Series in Posttraumatic Growth

Psychological Growth After Trauma is a guide to moving away from assumptions about trauma as a simple form of 'psychological damage.' This is not a book that argues for a model that practitioners would be required to adopt and impose on their clients. Instead, it brings insights and explorations together, allowing the reader to build their own framework for understanding.

Putting the Psychoanalytic Frame to Work

Why it Matters

Allannah Furlong

Psychoanalysis is not just about what happens in the room—it is also about the structure that holds it all together. In Putting the Psychoanalytic Frame to Work, Allannah Furlong rethinks one of the traditional approaches to the analytic frame, arguing that disruptions—missed sessions, consent complexities, and third-party demands—are not necessarily obstacles but can be essential moments for deepening therapeutic insight. A why-to rather than a how-to book, Putting the Psychoanalytic Frame to Work aims to invigorate the practice of analysts everywhere—both seasoned and in training.

Sharpening Psychology's Concepts

The Spirit of Jungian Psychology and the Danger of Faulty Thinking

Wolfgang Giegerich

Series: The Collected English Papers of Wolfgang Giegerich

A big problem of psychology in the tradition of C.G. Jung is that many concepts and orientations are being used by its adherents that are not really compatible with a true psychology because they have their home ground in other orientations. This book will be of great interest to the Jungian community, psychotherapists and psychoanalysts training in Jungian theory and practice, as well as those interested in psychological, theological and philosophical issues.

Selected Writings of Maureen O'Hara on the Art, Science, and Hope of Humanism

Vitalising Persons for Turbulent Times

Edited by Keith Tudor Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand, Maureen O'Hara

This book presents the work of the eminent British-American psychologist, Maureen O'Hara. It explores the trajectory of humanistic psychology over the last few decades, providing a link between its original proponents, notably Carl Rogers, and its contemporary manifestations. The text reproduces 18 of O'Hara's original papers arranged in six parts, each of which reflect a significant area in which she has contributed her rigorous analysis and creative thinking. Bringing together a collection of O'Hara's works to a broader audience, this book will be of interest to humanistic psychologists and psychotherapists, as well as those studying and/or training in this field.

The Art of Jungian Couples Therapy

An Introduction

Elizabeth Éowyn Nelson, Anthony Delmedico

Within this accessible volume, Nelson and Delmedico apply a Jungian approach to provide fresh ways of thinking about couples therapy, and the profound unconscious forces at play when couples create a life together. Firmly grounded in Jungian thought yet intimate, approachable, and up to date, the book will be an indispensable guide for professional marriage and family therapists, psychoanalysts from both Jungian and Freudian schools, counseling psychologists, and licensed social workers who already practice couples therapy or have considered working with couples.

The Bollingen Tower: Constructing a Jungian Sense of Place

Martin Gledhill University of Bath

Series: Research in Analytical Psychology and Jungian Studies

Offering a novel conceptual methodology where Jungian psychology is used to analyse Jung's own architecture, this book offers an innovative reading of Jung's Bollingen Tower in order to explore a Jungian sense of place, situating it within a wider examination of the psychic places that influenced his work. The book opens up interdisciplinary dialogues and provides a broader context for understanding the relationship between environment and the psyche. It will therefore be of interest to scholars and postgraduate students in the fields of Jungian and analytical psychology, and architecture.

The Impossible Return – Psychoanalytic Reflections on Breast Cancer, Loss, and Mourning

Anna Fishzon

The Impossible Return – Psychoanalytic Reflections on Breast Cancer, Loss, and Mourning is a work of creative non-fiction and auto-theory. It is part cancer memoir, part psychoanalytic theorizing, and part history of late-Soviet Ukraine. Through theoretical and personal reflections on mourning and recovery after catastrophic collapses of psyche, body, and place, the book makes original contributions to psychoanalysis, Slavic and cultural studies, trauma studies, film criticism, and history. This unique work will be relevant to readers interested in psychoanalytic studies, cancer and disability studies and critical theory, and academics of auto-theory and memoir.

The Limits of Interpretation

Essays on Bion and Field Theory

Giuseppe Civitarese

Series: New Library of Psychoanalysis

The Limits of Interpretation opens a window onto unexplored dimensions of Wilfred Bion's thought, presenting essays that illuminate both familiar and lesser-known facets of his work. It guides readers through complex notions such as visible-invisible hallucinations, bizarre objects, and a radical reframing of the Oedipus complex—shifted from incest and parricide to arrogance and the desire for knowledge. Offering a close reading and clear interpretation of Bion's sometimes dense writing, this is essential reading for any psychoanalysts or psychotherapist wanting to understand Bion's work better.

The Perverse Feminine

An Archetypal Reclamation of Forbidden Power

Kalen Aradia Independent scholar, California, USA

The Perverse Feminine resurrects a long-buried psychic figure: the Perverse Feminine Archetype. Grounded in intuitive inquiry, this work builds on Jungian theory, feminist psychology, and myth to illuminate the archetypal constructs of forbidden power, deviant desire, and inherited shame shaping the collective psyche of cisgender women. Through evocative narratives that generate tools for archetypal engagement, this study offers individuals, theorists, and clinicians a guide to identity, self-discovery, and psychic wholeness within a rapidly changing cultural landscape.

The Relational Jung

Challenging the Inward Orientation of Analytical Psychology

Edited by Robin S. Brown, Mark Saban

Within this fascinating new volume, a group of prominent Jungian writers seek to explore the apparent contradiction between two aspects of Jungian thinking: one that points in the direction of a genuinely radical relational psychology, and another which seems to struggle to engage meaningfully with what we might call the psychosocial dimension. This unique collection will be of particular value to scholars and clinicians within the Jungian world, as well as relationally-oriented psychoanalysts with an interest in becoming more conversant in Jung.

Understanding Self-Worth

A Guide to Worth-Conscious Theory and Psychotherapeutic Practice

Dawna Daigneault Zest of Life, LLC, Missouri, USA
Chris Brown University of Missouri-Kansas City, USA

Understanding Self-Worth is a guide for psychotherapists confounded by the struggle of working with clients who present with a pervasive pattern of denied self-worth. Psychotherapists will come away from this book with a deep understanding of the importance of attending to the degree of trauma experienced when the client's self-worth is separated from their individual truth. Moreover, where there is worth-based trauma, the psychotherapist will learn models both for helping clients gently and honestly reestablish a worthy and true sense of self and for consciously guiding clients towards recovery of human worth as a birthright.

War as Reset

Insights from Contemporary Analytical Psychology on the Age of Hypocrisy

Edited by Stefano Carpani, Ludmilla Ostermann

In an age continuously shaped and shocked by wars and societal crises, this book serves as an antidote to superficial media frenzy. Exploring the interplay between the insights from analytical psychology and global dynamics, it unravels the meanings behind our shared fears and invites readers to confront challenging truths shaping our present and future. This book proposes that war often serves as a reset mechanism, and that our era can be termed the one of hypocrisy. It will be of interest to academics, scholars and students within the fields of analytical psychology, psychosocial studies, psychoanalysis and sociology.

9TH EDITION

A Critical History of Psychology

From Antiquity to Modernity

Thomas Hardy Leahey Virginia Commonwealth University, USA

This fully updated and refreshed 9th edition places social, economic and political forces of change alongside psychology's internal theoretical and empirical arguments. It utilises a critical lens to illuminate the way in which the external world has shaped the development of psychology and, in turn, how psychology from antiquity to modernity has shaped society. Including scientific, applied, and professional psychology, as well as coverage of the social sciences and social policy implications, this book is appropriate for high level undergraduate and graduate students.

Comparison Between Continuous-Time and Discrete-Time

Event History Analysis with Stata

Gwendolin J. Blossfeld

Comparison Between Continuous-Time and Discrete-Time: Event History Analysis With Stata elucidates the statistical concepts and empirical applications of both continuous-time and discrete-time event history models. Empirical scientists have increasingly collected data on the timing of events, with the understanding that events can occur at any point in time and may be recorded using different observation schemes. However, time-continuous processes are not always observed with fine-grained temporal resolution; in some cases, they are captured with larger observation intervals (monthly, yearly, biennially and quadrennially).

Critical Health and Learning Disabilities

An Exploration of Erasure and Social Murder

Sara Ryan

Series: Critical Approaches to Health

This empirically grounded book presents a critical, interdisciplinary perspective on social and cultural issues related to the health and wellbeing of people with learning disabilities. Through an exploration of healthcare, love and intimacy, pregnancy and childbirth, housing, employment, and food the book highlights the enduringly impoverished lives and premature deaths people labelled with learning disabilities experience globally and suggests that such structural violence amounts to social murder.

Introducing Existential Health

The Four-Dimensional Model

Peter la Cour

This book unfolds this evolving concept and places it in the context of common understandings of health. It presents existential health as a vital dimension in understanding human well-being, complementing the traditional biopsychosocial model. It critiques reductionist and mechanistic views of health and showcases a new four-dimensional model in healthcare practice and design that integrates biological, psychological, social, and existential dimensions. Presented as a valid alternative to the biopsychosocial model, it provides modern system thinking and a holistic understanding centred around meaning.

Brian Parkinson

This unique book guides readers round 50 landmark studies in the psychology of emotion. It explores questions including what gives emotion its distinct emotional quality, whether our faces always reveal what we are feeling, and how we can be in control of our emotions. The book traces a route through both classic and contemporary studies, covering factors that make different emotions different, causal processes, emotion regulation, the perception and production of facial expressions, interpersonal and group processes, and emotion concepts. Each section presents a series of studies which complement and build on those discussed earlier.

Parental Gatekeeping

Edited by Sarah J. Schoppe-Sullivan The Ohio State University
F. Kübra Aytac-DiCarlo The Ohio State University

Series: Studies in Parenting Series

Chapter authors review theories and conceptual models of gatekeeping, examine predictors of gatekeeping, and evaluate its consequences for parent-child relationships. Offering a holistic perspective, the book not only explores mothers' gatekeeping of fathers, but also considers the potential roles of others, including fathers and grandparents, as gatekeepers. Chapter authors also explore parental gatekeeping processes in at risk families, including separated and divorced families and those with adolescent and nonresident fathers. This book summarizes the key findings and critical gaps in the gatekeeping literature and suggests important directions for future research.

Rethinking Psychology

Finding Meaning in Misconceptions

Michael W. Eysenck Emeritus Professor of Psychology in the psychology department at Royal Holloway University of London, UK

In this thought-provoking exploration of 44 of the most common psychological myths, Mike Eysenck examines the complexity of psychological science as well as the distortion of data, not only through the media, but also by researchers, textbook writers, and individuals themselves. He challenges the notion that the substantial progress made by psychology has provided enough convincing experimental evidence to successfully demolish these inaccuracies, and explores the ways in which psychological research should be systematically improved so that psychology can take its place as a robust scientific discipline.

Reversible Causes of Cognitive Impairment and Dementia

From Neuroscience to Clinical Practice

Edited by Thomas J. Farrer Duke University Medical Center, Durham, NC Lynn A. Schaefer Nassau University Medical Center, N.Y.

This pioneering book covers a broad range of reversible causes of cognitive decline and dementia, ranging from the basic neuroscience of the condition to clinical manifestations, and practice treatment implications. It offers something new to the field of dementia assessment and treatment by shining a light on the multiple comorbidities that compound the patient's clinical presentation and exacerbate cognitive decline, and by presenting differential diagnoses and the imperative to rule out reversible causes of cognitive impairment/dementia in one key text.

The Ethics, Psychology and Theology of AI

Exploring the Notion of Singularity

John Senior , Éva Gyarmathy

This book explores the profound impact of Artificial Intelligence Psychology (AIPsy) on human psychology, identity, theology, and agency, addressing the urgent need to define the future of humanity amidst evolving technological landscapes. Divided into four sections, it covers the psychological implications of AI on human cognition and behaviour, analyses theological perspectives on AI, re-examines agency and identity in the age of AI, and fosters a multidisciplinary dialogue synthesizing insights from psychology, theology, ethics, philosophy, computer science, and sociology.

The Great Psychology Delusion

Missteps, Pitfalls and How to Make a More Successful Psychological Science

Craig Speelman Edith Cowan University Marek McGann

This book takes an unflinching look at some of the foundational assumptions of psychological science. Exploring long-standing unanswered critiques of psychological research in a way that is detailed but accessible, it brings together a wealth of material that challenges our understanding of what the science of psychology really is, and how the subject matter of that science should be conceived. This unsentimental examination of the state of things nevertheless allows the authors to identify concrete steps that the scientific community can take to re-ground psychological research and move forward to a successful science studying the richest and most complex phenomena we know of: us.

The Power of Collective Resilience Against Political Violence and Repression

Edited by Yasemin Gulsum Acar, Blerina Këllezi,
Sandra Penić

This book outlines the importance of collective resilience for groups who have faced challenging or threatening circumstances, such as war and political violence. Drawing on novel research from a range of diverse contexts, the book explores a nuanced picture of how political violence can lead to increased social cooperation and action within communities, as well as the well documented negative dynamics. It brings together researchers studying the collective resilience of civilians in the context of political violence and repression in three fields: psychological well-being, resistance and collective action, and reconciliation and peacebuilding.

The Psychology of Attack Politics

Perceptions, Evaluations and Effects

Alessandro Nai, Lukas P. Otto, Chiara Vargiu

Series: Global Perspectives in Political Psychology

The Psychology of Attack Politics explores negativity in election campaigns, and the way in which the, often deliberate, use of negative messaging impacts voters, and has wide reaching societal consequences. With most elections being fraught with tension, disrespectful treatment of political opponents, and political incivility, this timely book aims to disentangle the dynamics of negativity perceptions (that is, whether citizens perceive a given message to be negative), evaluations (that is, whether citizens like or dislike the negative message), and effects (that is, whether exposure to negative messages alters attitudes and behaviours).

The Psychology of Blindness and Visual Culture

Towards a New Ecological Model of Visual Impairment

Simon Hayhoe

The Psychology of Blindness and Visual Culture: Towards a new ecological model of visual impairment advances the debate regarding the inclusion and wellbeing of people with visual impairment (PVI) through looking at the psychological nature of visual culture and its effects on the lived experience. It explores whether it is possible to increase access to visual culture for PVI through language, alternative sensory data or contemporary communication media, and in so doing, questions whether or not communication and culture are intrinsically visual.

The Psychology of Collective Climate Action

Building Climate Courage

Karen Hamann, Eva Junge, Paula Blumenschein, Sophia Dasch, Alex Wernke, Julian Bleh

How do we find the courage to act together against the climate crisis? This book weaves together real-life findings and examples from the social-ecological movement with psychological research to show how motivation for collective climate action can be built. The book addresses two key questions: how can individuals be motivated to participate in collective climate action, and how can climate groups become resilient and effective? Specifically, it explores how individuals can foster their identification with climate action groups, as well as strengthening their feeling to be effective - both as a group and as part of a group.

The Social Psychology of the Human-Animal Bond

Laurent Bègue-Shankland

This book looks at our relationships of dominance with and affection for animals. It reviews how animals played a pivotal role in ancient civilizations, and still play a fundamental part in human lives, and looks at how many humans feel deep affection and other strong emotions towards animals. This book shows how much our relations with animals - from attachment to abuse - reveal our identity and our relations with others. It will provide a valuable resource not only to students and researchers studying human-animal relations, zoology and human psychology, but also to a general reader interested in animal advocacy.

Categorical Data Analysis with Structural Equation Models

Applications in Mplus and lavaan

Kevin J. Grimm Arizona State University, United States

Multivariate categorical outcomes require specialized structural equation modeling (SEM) software to be analyzed properly. This book leads readers from regression analysis with categorical outcomes to complex SEMs with latent variables for categorical indicators. The text demonstrates regression analyses for binary, ordered, or count outcomes using R, with comparable SAS code at the companion website. It reanalyzes the same data using Mplus and R lavaan to show how univariate models for categorical outcomes can be estimated and interpreted with SEM programs, before tackling multivariate models and advanced SEM with categorical outcomes. Annotated Mplus and lavaan code is featured throughout.

Family-Based Therapy for Latine Adolescents

The CIFFTA Model

Daniel A. Santisteban Training and Implementation Associates; University of Miami (Emeritus), United States
Maite P. Mena University of Miami, United States
David Santisteban

Filling a key need for clinicians working with at-risk Latine adolescents, this book bridges the gap between evidence-based and culturally informed adolescent and family therapy. The authors explore the unique challenges facing Latine youth and families, as well as culturally based sources of resilience. They present Culturally Informed and Flexible Family-Based Treatment for Adolescents (CIFFTA), which combines manualized family and individual interventions with psychoeducational modules, and can be used in treatment of a range of mental health and substance use problems. The book includes vivid case examples and provides information about comprehensive CIFFTA training.

Guiding Families through Transitions

A Life Cycle Approach to Clinical Practice

Todd M. Edwards University of San Diego, United States
JoEllen Patterson University of San Diego; University of California, United States
James L. Griffith

An indispensable clinical resource and text, this book offers therapists evidence-based strategies to support families through life's inevitable transitions. Chapters explore typical life cycle stages—couple formation, parenthood, adolescence, young adulthood and midlife, and later life—and describe treatment principles for frequently encountered family challenges. The book normalizes developmental strains and underscores the significance of flexibility, adaptability, and resilience through adversity. Extensive case examples encompass a range of family forms, cultural and individual differences, and life cycle disruptions, including parental separation, illness, and loss.

Motivational Interviewing with Families

Douglas C. Smith University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, United States

While motivational interviewing (MI) was developed as a counseling approach for individuals, it also has tremendous utility for helping families change and grow. This book offers the first comprehensive guide to adapting MI skills to engage families—including reluctant members—in therapy and mobilize family-level change processes. Extensive annotated sample dialogues show how MI can be integrated with any therapy approach for families struggling with mental health problems, addictions, relationship challenges, difficult life transitions, or other concerns. Special features include boxed sidebars, reflection questions, and practice exercises.

Sensory Pathways to Healing from Trauma

Harnessing the Brain's Capacity for Change

Ruth A. Lanius Western University, Canada
Sherain Harricharan, Breanne E. Kearney University of Western Ontario, Canada
Benjamin Pandev-Girard

This book explores the impact of psychological trauma on the brain's sensory pathways and demonstrates the crucial role sensory-based interventions can play in recovery. Neurobiological research is interwoven with evocative clinical material. The book highlights the brain-body disconnect that is part of the lived experience of trauma, and traces what happens in all eight sensory systems when an individual is under threat. Featuring within-chapter "Bridging to Practice" sections, the book reveals how working with sensory pathways can engage the whole brain, promote neuroplasticity, and optimize the effectiveness of standard psychotherapies. Illustrations include eight pages in full color.

The AARP Caregiver Answer Book

Barry J. Jacobs Crozer-Keystone Family Medicine Residency Program, United States
Julia L. Mayer private practice, United States

Every year, countless people take on the role of caring for an ill, aging, or disabled family member—a job that can be overwhelming. Caregivers wonder: How do I figure out what type of care my loved one needs? What if they refuse my help? How can I get other relatives to pitch in? Who pays for all this? Written in a Q&A format, this book is packed with information, problem-solving and coping ideas, resources, stories, and communication tips. The authors are husband-and-wife psychologists who have been family caregivers themselves. They address everything needed to help parents, spouses, or other loved ones—from managing family conflicts to hiring aides to optimizing end-of-life care.

Belarus in Autoethnographic Narratives

The Art of Mercy Against Oblivion

Victor Martinovich

This book offers an autoethnographic exploration of the interplay of art, memory, and resilience in Eastern Europe, weaving together the personal and collective histories of Belarusians – those who survived two world wars and their contemporaries, who are now looking for a way out of a political crisis in the region. Set against the history of Belarus, it recounts the story of the author's great-grandfather Amyalyan, a Belarusian peasant executed by the Nazis after saving a Jewish man during World War I. A valuable addition for researchers and students interested in ethnography and autoethnography, Eastern European studies, art history, cultural studies and memory studies.

Cambodian American Youth, Identity, and Schooling

Ethnographic Research

Vichet Chhuon University of Minnesota

This book examines how Cambodian American high school youth reconcile stereotypes, identities, and school opportunities and the ways these factors impact academic achievement and well-being, through ethnographic research. The backdrop for Cambodian American life is intimately embedded within how Asians and Asian Americans are imagined within U.S. society. It argues that how Cambodian American students negotiate certain identities are in relation to perceived advantages associated with ethnic and panethnic labels across varying social contexts. It highlights how the embrace of the model minority stereotype can come at a psychological cost for Asian Americans.

Critical Visual Methods to Advance Racial Justice in Educational Research

The Seen and the Unseen

Edited by Angela M. Wiseman, Marva Cappello, Jennifer D. Turner

Critical Visual Methods to Advance Racial Justice in Educational Research advances critical research methodologies for analyzing visual and multimodal data, with particular attention to racial justice and minoritized communities. It presents innovative theoretical frameworks and analytical approaches for examining how visual representations impact, perpetuate, and potentially transform systemic inequities in educational research. This book is designed for emerging and established educational scholars interested in critical visual and multimodal methodologies, and serves as an ideal text for undergraduate and graduate research courses.

Embracing Queer and Trans Frameworks in Qualitative Educational Research

Showing Our Work

LJ Slovin, Sam Stiegler

Embracing Queer and Trans Frameworks in Qualitative Educational Research reflects on a decade of conversations about research, thinking, and life, exploring how to navigate the ethical complexities of working with queer and trans youth as queer and trans scholars. This book is essential reading for students across disciplines, as well as qualitative researchers engaged in youth studies, critical methodologies, sociology, and queer and trans studies.

How to Craft Autoethnography

A Practical-ish Guide

Marcus B. Weaver-Hightower University of North Dakota, USA

How to Craft Autoethnography is a comprehensive and engaging guide to the art and science of autoethnography, a qualitative research method that blends personal narrative with cultural analysis. Designed to be both practical and theoretically grounded, the book offers a structured yet flexible approach to developing "good" autoethnographic research. Throughout the book, Weaver-Hightower addresses the essential components of autoethnographic research, including when to use (or not use) the method, how to generate and analyze data, and how to assess quality and ethics in an autoethnography.

Interpretation in Qualitative Research

Key Concepts in Qualitative Methods

Edited by Karin Murris University of Cape Town, South Africa, Mirka Koro

Series: Key Concepts in Qualitative Methods

Interpretation in Qualitative Research: Key Concepts in Qualitative Research is an edited collection that makes a methodological contribution to the conceptual connections around/with/for/to interpretation and it offers contemporary concept provocations to the literature on interpretation. It can be used as a main text for introduction to qualitative research courses, advanced courses focusing on interpretation or interpretive sciences. It could also be used as a supplementary textbook for qualitative methods courses including data collection and research design courses.

3RD EDITION

Interpretive Description

Qualitative Research for Applied Practice

Sally Thorne

Series: Developing Qualitative Inquiry

Interpretive Description: Qualitative Research for Applied Practice takes the reader through the qualitative research process, from research design through fieldwork, analysis, interpretation, and application of the results; provides numerous examples from a variety of applied fields to show research in action; and uses an accessible style to be the ideal book for teaching qualitative research in clinical and applied disciplines. This new, third edition includes additional material on positionality, disciplinary blindspots, design logic, arts-based approaches, diversity, mixed methods, writers block, and dealing with critique.

Maximizing Research Impact

Practical Strategies for Enhancing Research Visibility

Hamed Taherdoost University Canada West, Canada

Series: Mastering Academic Excellence

This book addresses the challenges and opportunities presented by the rapidly evolving research landscape, including the rise of digital platforms, open access publishing, and the importance of interdisciplinary collaboration. It provides actionable strategies to navigate these changes effectively and ensure that research is not only published but also widely disseminated, recognized, and utilized. Designed for a diverse audience, this will be suitable for early-career researchers, established scholars, and graduate students seeking to build or enhance their academic presence.

2ND EDITION

Modes of Thinking for Qualitative Data Analysis

Melissa Freeman University of Georgia, USA.

Offers a creative and comparative account of the conceptual and philosophical underpinnings of six prominent analytical movements used by interdisciplinary qualitative researchers: Categorical Thinking, Narrative Thinking, Dialectical Thinking, Poetic Thinking, Diffractional Thinking, and Decolonial Thinking. This book is a thought-provoking resource for experienced and novice interdisciplinary qualitative researchers seeking to deepen their understanding of the variety of ways qualitative analysis is, and could be, theorized and practiced.

Multiple Regression and Beyond

An Introduction to Multiple Regression and Structural Equation Modeling

Timothy Z. Keith University of Texas, Austin, USA
Matthew Reynolds University of Kansas
Jacqueline Caemmerer University of Connecticut

Multiple Regression and Beyond offers a conceptually-oriented introduction to multiple regression (MR) analysis and structural equation modeling (SEM), along with analyses that flow naturally from those methods. By focusing on the concepts and purposes of MR and related methods, rather than the derivation and calculation of formulae, this book introduces material to students more clearly, and in a less threatening way. In addition to illuminating content necessary for coursework, the accessibility of this approach means students are more likely to be able to conduct research using MR or SEM—and more likely to use the methods wisely.

Narrativizing Artistic Discovery

Creating a Unique Artist Identity Through Critical Self-Reflection

Ralph Klewitz

This book explores how artistic identity evolves through creative practice, self-reflection, and philosophical inquiry, using the experience of artist Ralph Klewitz as a case study. Artists, art educators, researchers in creative practice, philosophy, and social sciences, as well as students exploring artistic development, will find this book essential. It also offers key insights for the wider art world community and individuals in the creative industries, particularly those interested in the intersection of art, identity, and social engagement.

Practice Research through Creative Bodies

Edited by Caroline Frizell Goldsmiths University of London, UK
Marina Rova

This anthology brings a focus to practice research in which moving bodies and creative processes are imperatives. It brings together a range of researchers and performers who present innovative research through single authored and co-authored projects that trouble the notion that there are limited ways of researching and performing. Readers are invited to consider the many different ways in which (em)bodied research and performance generates new knowledge. It is a useful resource for students, researchers and professionals in art therapies, somatic practice and arts performance.

Researching Care with Case Studies

Robert Stake, Merel Visse

Researching Care with Case Studies offers a fresh perspective on the universe of care practices, using case studies to illuminate their stretch and complexities. Step by step, this book guides both novice and experienced researchers in prioritizing issues and concerns, context, specific details, relationships, the richness of lived experiences, and personal narratives when studying and advancing care. It provides insights into the strengths of case studies in revealing the essence of care ethics and supports a more nuanced, responsive approach to care research and practice.

Social Network Analysis and Text Mining for Big Data

The Power of Words and Networks

Andrea Fronzetti Colladon, Roberto Vestrelli

Social Network Analysis and Text Mining for Big Data presents cutting-edge methods and tools that bridge the gap between text mining and social network analysis research while also providing new insights for analyzing (big) textual and network data. This book is a must-read for business leaders, marketing professionals, policymakers, researchers, and university students. It offers practical insights and actionable advice for achieving increased performance of companies and societal actions. The writing is tailored to make complex concepts accessible to both experienced researchers and readers who are new to the field.

Standards, Emergence, and Complex Outcomes

The Missing Link between Cause and Effect

D. Linda Garcia

This book redefines how we think about standards, framing them as interfaces that govern interactions and connect causes to their effects. Expanding beyond traditional technical and geopolitical discussions, Garcia introduces a fresh theoretical perspective that positions standards as central to understanding complexity. From food safety and workplace regulations to standardized parts in manufacturing and our reliance on technology, standards shape nearly every aspect of modern life. An essential resource for academics and students across the social sciences, policy makers shaping standards-dependent fields, and professionals in industries where standards dictate progress.

Teaching Information Seeking

Rethinking How We Teach Research in the Information Age

Jon Ostenson Brigham Young University, USA

Teaching Information Seeking redefines how we approach research and information literacy in today's information-rich world, inviting teachers to re-imagine teaching research. The book combines insights from fields such as library and information sciences, journalism, and media literacy to offer fresh strategies and perspectives for guiding students through evolving landscapes of information. While a focus on concepts and skills has long been important in teaching research, this book integrates significant new understandings about the role dispositions play in how well students embrace and utilize skill-based knowledge.

Using Co-Production in Physical Activity for Health Research

Edited by Sarah Morton

This is the first research methods book on the application of using a co-production approach for physical activity for health research. When used for research, co-production has potential to be hugely impactful. The underpinning ethos of co-production is to involve multiple and varied stakeholders throughout the process. It offers evidence-based guidance, case studies, and reflections on using co-production specifically for physical activity and health research. By involving users at every stage, from conception to finalization of outputs, it demonstrates the power of co-production as a tool for positive change across society, providing insights into understanding user needs etc.

Writing Sensation

Sense, Events, and Encounters with Creative-Relational Inquiry

Andrew Mark Gillott

Writing Sensation: Sense, Events, and Encounters with Creative-Relational Inquiry, illuminates the 'creative-relational' as a poietic and transversal concept of an inquiry capable of attending to the way events throw themselves together, and how forms take shape in the interplay of difference. This book will be of interest to scholars, practitioners, and students of transdisciplinary and experimental research, post-structural and immanent philosophies, and postfoundational, postqualitative, and creative-relational approaches to inquiry.
