The Quest for Reparations for Indian Residential School Abuse

Confronting the Legacy of the Independent Assessment Process

Konstantin Petoukhov

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

This book explores the complexities and nuances of reparations for victims and survivors of settler colonial violence. It centres its analysis on the Independent Assessment Process (IAP), a financial compensation program that was designed to address the horrific legacy of Canada's Indian Residential School system, which was established to assimilate Indigenous children into settler Canadian society. The target audience for this book include scholars, educators, practitioners, students, and members of the general public whose research interests include settler colonial studies, history, reparations, transitional justice, Indigenous studies, and critical victimology.

Crime Prevention and Treatment Policies

A Biopsychosocial Approach

Anthony Walsh

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

This book shows how to use biopsychosocial assessment for crime prevention and to achieve more individualized treatment for those who commit crimes. Author Anthony Walsh, a prominent figure in biosocial criminology for more than four decades, examines the treatment policy recommendations of major criminological theories and how they might be improved by integrating relevant biopsychosocial insights. Offering a fresh perspective, this book is essential for both scholars and practitioners wishing to explore treatment modalities that consider the biological aspects of criminality.

Caged Histories

Violence and Resistance in Greek Immigration Detention

Andriani Fili Oxford University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Justice, Borders and Citizenship

This book offers an unprecedented exploration of Greece's immigration detention system, uncovering its hidden histories, systemic violence, and the struggles of those confined within its walls. Drawing on over a decade of ethnographic research and personal experience as an NGO practitioner, it exposes how detention has been used as a tool for border control, racial exclusion, and social punishment. It will resonate with readers interested in migration, social justice, and human rights, offering a vital contribution to contemporary debates on borders, confinement, and resistance across Europe and beyond.

Farm Crime

An International Perspective

Joseph F. Donnermeyer

Series: Routledge Studies in Rural Criminology

Written by a pioneer of rural criminology, Farm Crime is the first synthesis of the scholarly literature documenting the extent, pattern and cost of crime committed against agricultural operations around the world. It provides a significant agenda for the future study of agricultural victimization, both in terms of its importance to issues of food security and the safety of farm families around the world. This book is essential reading for green criminologists, rural criminologists, mainstream criminologists and sociologists alike. It will also be of interest to researchers and policymakers focused on issues of rural development, agricultural policy and food security.

Hauntology

An Introduction for Criminologists

Paul McGuinness University of Sussex, Alex Simpson Macquarie University, Tea Fredriksson Stockholm University, Michael Fiddler University of Greenwich

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime, Culture and Media

In response to the recent 'spectral turn' within criminology this book presents, for the first time, a concise, comprehensive, approachable, and critically engaged guide to hauntology for criminological researchers and graduate students. It outlines how criminological researchers may welcome hauntings into their work, to escape the ontological tethers of criminological realism and to reveal the importance of absence in their work, addressing how they can be used to expand criminological imagination. A guide for criminologists that is designed to, for the first time, help direct future hauntological research and enhanced learning capacity across the discipline of criminology.

Intertwining Criminal Justice and Immigration Control in the EU

Edited by Niovi Vavoula, Evangelia (Lilian) Tsourdi, Valsamis Mitsilegas Queen Mary University of London, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Justice, Borders and Citizenship

This book offers a contemporary understanding of the state of the art of 'crimmigration' with a focus on the European Union and challenges this paradigm of intersecting criminal justice and immigration control. It outlines how criminalisation of migration leads to the emergence of hostile environments for migrants and those who assist them. This book will be of interest to criminologists, sociologists, legal scholars, and all those engaged in studies on migration and the European Union.

2ND EDITION

Organized Crime

A Cultural Introduction

Antonio Nicaso, Marcel Danesi

This book aims to describe and demystify what makes organized criminal groups so culturally powerful. This new edition examines their codes of conduct, initiation rites, secret communication methods, origin myths, symbols, and lifestyles, and serves as an introduction to organized crime from the angle of cultural analysis. It includes case studies and offers an accessible, interdisciplinary approach to the subject of organized crime. It is essential reading for students engaged with organized crime across criminology, sociology, anthropology, and psychology.

Policing Ethically

Clive Harfield, Allyson Macvean

Series: Routledge Advances in Police Practice and Knowledge

What does the phrase 'police ethics' mean? What does 'policing ethically' entail? This book provides answers to these questions and proposes an ethical tool-kit to help evaluate the making of ethically-sound decisions and choices by policing officials. This book is essential reading for all those involved in delivering policing: constables of all ranks, policing community support officers, professional support staff, policing ethic committee members, and policymakers. It will be of interest not only to policing ethicists and ethnographers, but also students and policy-makers in the fields of criminology, sociology and governance.

Professional Disobedience in Probation

Manual-based Interventions and Transgressive Strategies

Asbjørn Storgaard

Series: Routledge Studies in Probation and Community Sanctions

This book comprises an in-depth ethnographic study of daily life in two local Danish probation offices. It explores the interactions between probation officers and citizens on probation, assessing the potential for manual-based or 'scripted' rehabilitative interventions to inspire participatory citizenship among disenfranchised clients. This book is essential reading for those engaged in probation, criminal justice, ethnography, and Nordic Criminology. Given the broad applicability of the concept of 'professional disobedience,' it will also appeal to researchers, students, practitioners, and policymakers with an interest in punishment, disenfranchisement, and rehabilitation.

4TH EDITION

Pursuing Justice

Traditional and Contemporary Issues in Our Communities and the World

Ralph A. Weisheit, Frank Morn

Pursuing Justice, Fourth Edition, examines the issue of justice by considering the origins of the idea, formal systems of justice, current global issues of justice, and ways in which justice might be achieved by individuals, organizations, and the global community. This updated book uses current events and debates to help students understand the complexities and nuances of a society's pursuit of justice. It provides students with the foundations of global justice systems, integrating Greek philosophies and major religious perspectives into a justice perspective, and contributes to undergraduate understanding of international justice bodies, NGOs, and institutions.

2ND EDITION

Revitalizing Criminological Theory

Advances in Ultra-Realism

Steve Hall Teesside University, UK, Simon Winlow Teesside University, UK

Series: New Directions in Critical Criminology

In the first edition, Hall and Winlow laid the foundations for an alternative theoretical framework and research in criminology. In three additional chapters written specially for this edition they introduce further concepts and substantive revisions to the theoretical framework. The main focus of this edition is the growing body of criminological projects conducted by a new generation of researchers who have adopted and mobilised ultra-realist thinking over the past decade. It is essential reading for academics and students engaged in the study of criminology, sociology, social psychology, the philosophy of social science and the history of crime.

Sexual Offenders and the Criminal System

Perceptions, Beliefs, and Science

Barry Maletzky

This book demonstrates that the criminal justice system in the United States has allowed the natural emotions surrounding sexuality to allow the minority of sexual offenders who are truly dangerous to be merged with the majority of offenders who pose little, if any, risk to be at large. This work is thought-provoking for attorneys, prosecutors, legal assistants and law clerks, members of the judiciary, those who teach or are students of the administration of justice, those who assess or treat sexual offenders, and offenders and their families affected by the system.

Storytelling for Crime and Justice

Towards a Creative Criminology: A Toolkit

Martin Glynn

The book presents a reflexive account of the author's experiences of using creativity with incarcerated men and women. Drawing on a range of topics including ethical storytelling, poetic inquiry, staging ethno-drama, crime fiction, and auto-ethnography, it makes a compelling case for a creative criminology, offering practical tips and insights into creative methods for presenting research, disseminating criminological knowledge, and developing pedagogy. Written by a seasoned criminologist, theatre director, storyteller, and dramatist, this is essential reading for all those interested in using creative methods as a tool to explore the complex landscape of crime and justice.

The Communicative Architecture of Policing

Community, Power and Legitimacy in the Age of 'New Media'

Cian Ó Concubhair

Series: Routledge Studies in Policing and Society

Based on nearly a decade of research on police-media relations, and the first to undertake a deep ethnography of both police communications and local news media in a single policing area, this book charts the emergence of an empowered professional police communicator class—and its distinctive cultural features—rooted in the mass communications potential of social media. It weaves together these empirical insights, by developing novel approaches to police legitimacy theory and institutional power relations. This book will be of interest to students, scholars, and practitioners in the fields of criminology, media studies, communication studies, journalism, and policing.

The New Phase of Global Terrorism

Edited by Binneh S. Minteh, James Bacigalupo, Kevin Borgeson, Robin Maria Valeri

The New Phase of Global Terrorism explores the nuances of the shift in the organization, strategy, and operation of terrorist groups into smaller and more robust terror groups at both the US and international levels. To develop efficient counterterrorism measures both domestically and globally, an understanding of the changing nature of terrorist group structure and strategy is essential. Ideal as a text in terrorism, counterterrorism, and homeland security courses, this book is highly readable for criminal justice, psychology, and sociology students and professors, as well as policymakers and practitioners concerned with countering terrorism at home and abroad.

2ND EDITION

Youth Street Gangs

A Critical Appraisal

David C. Brotherton John Jay College, New York, USA

The book critiques the pathologization of gangs in recent decades, particularly its negative consequences for democracy in an age of punishment, cruelty and coercive social control. It critically reviews gang theory and concludes by making a plea for researchers to engage the gang reflexively. The new edition contains three new chapters offering alternative approaches to interventions in gang violence and desistance, drawing on interviews with Antonio Fernandez (King Tone), former head of the Latin Kings. The book is essential reading for academics and students involved in the study of juvenile delinquency, youth studies, deviance, gang studies and cultural criminology.

Contemporary Economic Crime

Issues and Challenges

Edited by Michala Meiselles, Nicholas Ryder,
Penelope Giosa

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

This collection explores the culpability of corporate bodies and international organisations and examines the different responses to economic offences such as money laundering, bribery and corruption, cybercrime, market manipulation, insider trading and market abuse. The heart of the book lies in its dual mission — firstly, to compare the different jurisdictional approaches to crimes committed by corporations, and secondly, to propose solutions to some of the challenges faced by lawmakers, policymakers and law enforcement. It will be of interest to academics, legal practitioners, policymakers and law enforcement navigating the complex terrain of financial and corporate crime.

Corporate Crime

The Firm as Victim and Offender

Edited by William S. Laufer, Miranda A. Galvin

Series: Advances in Criminological Theory

This volume speaks to the fundamental issues inherent in trying to understand the who-what-where-and-whys of corporate crime. Only in addressing these larger issues does it become possible to begin to integrate the study of corporate crime into the larger criminological theory literature. The chapters in this volume underscore the failures of the current system and are intended to inspire readers to push for change. This important work will be of interest to a wide range of criminologists and has potential to shape the future of corporate crime theory and research. It is ideal for use in graduate seminars and upper-level undergraduate courses.

Unraveling the Wrongful Conviction

A Guide for Analyzing Innocence Claims

Daniel Grothaus

This book lays out the author's proven approach to investigating and assessing a defendant's claim of innocence whether pre-trial, or post-conviction. Claims of innocence may be common, but knowledge of an objective way to assess those claims is hardly universal. This book was written for the classroom and the field. It is essential reading for the student, the Innocence Project volunteer, practitioner or anyone interested in correcting a wrongful conviction, or avoiding the next false conviction.

Wrongful Convictions and the Criminalization of Innocence

International Perspectives on Contributing Factors, Models of Exoneration and Case Studies

Edited by Kathryn M. Campbell University of Ottawa,
Barak Ariel, Anat Horovitz, Irwin Cotler

Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law

This edited international collection explores the nature and extent of wrongful convictions, as well as examining the systems in place that attempt to exonerate the wrongly convicted. Inspired by two conventions of legal scholars, jurists, lawyers, and law students gathered to examine miscarriages of justice as well as the means to address them, in Israel and Canada, this compilation presents work arising from those workshops as well as newer research dedicated to examining this phenomenon. The book is useful for all those interested in studying miscarriages of justice, why they occur, and how to eliminate or minimize them.

Queer(y)ing Civil Law Responses to Domestic and Family Violence

Ellen Reeves Monash University

Series: Queering Criminology and Criminal Justice

Queer(y)ing Civil Law Responses to Domestic and Family Violence offers unique, in-depth insights into the experiences of LGBTQ+ victim-survivors who have engaged with civil protection order systems. Drawing on data from an Australian study following the experiences of LGBTQ+ victim-survivors of domestic and family violence, this book adopts a feminist, queer, and trans abolitionist perspective, and centres queer criminology as a framework through which we can situate and critique the rigid victim/perpetrator binaries that are so characteristic of legal responses to violence.

Therapeutic Community for Women Prisoners

Re-imagining Rehabilitation and the Loss of Liberty

Elaine Player, Elaine Genders

Based upon an extensive empirical study of a democratic therapeutic community (DTC) for women serving long and medium sentences, this book explores the opportunities it provided for reparative and restorative rehabilitation. In so doing it identifies some of the interconnected ways in which these ambitions are undermined by pervasive, yet often tacit, assumptions that underly penal policies and practices. It will be of great interest to students and scholars of criminology, feminist studies, public policy, and human rights. It will also be of value to policy-makers and practitioners in women's prisons, and psychologists and psychiatrists interested in therapeutic communities.

Foreign Direct Investment and International Law

Liberalization and Economic Sovereignty

Adaeze Agatha Aniodoh

Series: Routledge Research in Finance and Banking Law

This book examines the regulatory framework for foreign direct investments, most notably the bilateral investment treaties which provide several guarantees that minimise the exposure of risks to foreign investors in a host State. It argues that policies aimed at increasing foreign direct investment need to extend beyond investment liberalisation, to strike a balance between the regulatory rights of a State and the legitimate expectations of foreign investors. This book will be of interest to students, academics, and practitioners in the field of international investment law.

Entrepreneurs and Insolvency Law

The Right to a Fresh Start

Remigijus Jokubauskas

This book analyses the discharge of debts procedure in relation to insolvent entrepreneurs, covering the protection of human rights under insolvency law. It promotes the "fresh start" principle, which is the primary objective of the debt discharge process for insolvent entrepreneurs, and explores how fundamental human rights apply within such insolvency proceedings. Aiming to justify the limitation of creditors' property rights when their claims are discharged, it discusses the models and procedures for insolvency proceedings involving entrepreneurs. The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of insolvency law, financial law and entrepreneurship.

Alastair Hudson

Alastair Hudson's Equity and Trusts is the ideal textbook for undergraduate courses on the law of trusts and equitable remedies. The author's enthusiasm and expertise shine through, helping to bring to life an area of the law which students often find challenging. It has been cited as being authoritative in the courts of numerous countries. It probes the geopolitical problems which trusts law has created, as well as the traditional technical problems. Explaining concepts by using easy-to-understand examples from real life, it is essential reading for all core modules in the subject.

Borders of the Early Modern Ius Commune

England, Venice, and Scandinavia

Edited by Dolores Freda, Mario Piccinini, Heikki Pihlajamäki, Chiara Maria Valsecchi

Series: Routledge Studies in Comparative Legal History

The culture of the ius commune has been a unifying element of European and Western legal civilization. As shown by several recent studies, the influence of ius commune extended further than its traditional core area. This volume discusses the expansion and changes of ius commune in three significant corners of Europe: England, Scandinavia, and Venice. The study goes beyond the traditional question of the influence of ius commune in comparing the different constellations of normativity and legal pluralism in these regions. The book will be essential reading for researchers and academics in Legal History, Law and Religion, Comparative Legal Studies and Early Modern History.

China's Anti-monopoly Law in the Digital Era

How China Tames the Digital Behemoth

Jingmeng Cai

The book aims to depict the whole picture of China's Anti-monopoly law (AML) in the digital sector and reveals the three key factors shaping the AML enforcement: the policy factor, the legal factor, and the academic factor. The author focuses on three typical monopolistic behaviours—abuse of dominant market position, merger control, and monopoly agreements. The book will appeal to competition law (antitrust) and Chinese law academics, practitioners, and officials, as well as general readers interested in the subject.

Global Legal Indicators and Comparative Law

The Factory of Indexes

Daniele D'Alvia Queen Mary University of London, Matteo Nicolini

Series: Globalization: Law and Policy

In recent times, comparative law has moved towards a new type of visualisation of the law, which is mainly based on indexes and indicators. Through these, legal scholars and practitioners measure legal systems against specific benchmarks; they no longer search for commonalities among legal systems but are interested in assessing how the law performs in economic terms. This book critically analyses this 'quantitative turn' in comparative law. It will be of interest to advanced students, researchers and academics in Comparative Law, Global Law, Transnational Law, Constitutional Law, and Law and Economics.

Judicial Review in Greater China

Activism and Deference of Four Apex Courts

Shiling Xiao

Series: Globalization: Law and Policy

This book examines the judicial review systems in the four areas of Greater China – China, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Macau – and uncovers judicial review activities of the apex courts of each region. It provides a comparative assessment of judicial activism and deference. This work investigates the most up-to-date aspects of judicial review in Greater China and reflects on the modern theory regarding the judicialization of politics in different political regimes: democracy, authoritarian and hybrid. The book will be an invaluable companion for scholars and researchers working in the areas of Comparative Public Law, Comparative Constitutional Law, Constitutional Politics and Asian Studies.

Liability Law for Failed Contract Negotiations

A Comparative, Structural, and Historical Analysis

Tom Hick

This book provides the European structure of liability for failed contract negotiations through a comparative lens, with wider lessons for an international context. It demonstrates that all the analysed legal systems, in Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, and the Netherlands, can be best understood through a binary structure in their approach to pre-contractual liability, or culpa in contrahendo. This book will be of interest to researchers in the field of comparative contract and tort law, European private law, and private law theory.

The Protection of Property Rights Through Tort Law

Victoria Evans King's College London, United Kingdom

This book analyses the problems caused by relying on tort law mechanisms to protect tangible property interests in the common law and suggests a new way of thinking to rectify these issues. It demonstrates how tort law tends to focus on loss within the caselaw and argues that this fundamental mismatch wholly undermines the category of property rights, since the protection of property through tort is simultaneously too broad and too narrow. Using cases throughout, the book will be of interest to students, scholars, and practitioners within the fields of property law, tort law and private law in general.

Criminal Law and Criminal Justice

Morals and Policy

Amy Elkington

Criminal Law and Criminal Justice: Morals and Policy goes beyond the traditional criminal law textbook and invites students to question why we criminalise certain behaviour and whether the decisions made by the courts can be justified according to legal principle, morals and policy. Providing an overview not only of the legal doctrine of criminal law, but also of the underpinning theory behind the legal doctrine, the book encourages critical thinking around the context behind, and implementation of, legal decisions. Featuring thinking points and further reading suggestions, this textbook is suitable for all students of criminal law, as well as for those studying jurisprudence.

Making Jury Trials Fair

A Jury-centric Approach to Criminal Laws, Guiding Juries and Juror Comprehension

Greg Byrne

This book proposes using a 'jury-centric approach' for improving laws, practices, and procedures in jury trials. Courts assume that jurors in a criminal trial understand and apply the judge's directions about the law. The book illustrates and evaluates a jury-centric approach through three case studies involving structured decision-making aids, homicide laws, and misconceptions in sexual offence cases. The book will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers, policy-makers and students in the areas of Criminal Law, Courts, Human Rights Law, Psycholinguistics and Organisational Psychology, and to judges and lawyers.

Proof, Evidence and Hate Crime

A Study in Criminal Jurisprudence

Tshepo Bogosi Mosaka

Proof is the property of a disputed fact being established inferentially from an extant fact. This book explicates the structural components of this phenomenon in the context of hate crimes across various jurisdictions around the world. It departs from the orthodox conception of evidence and proof as being a general, value-neutral, or non-normative, and epistemic subject, and offers a relativistic conception of this area of law. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Criminal Law, Legal Philosophy and Procedural Law.

Climate Change before International Courts

A Comparative Study

Edited by Carla Gomes , Heloisa Oliveira , Armando Rocha , Matteo Fermeleglia

Series: Routledge Research in International Environmental Law

This book provides a comprehensive analysis of environmental law and climate change litigation within international courts, both substantively and procedurally. Climate change litigation is an area of continuous growth and complexity, particularly within international courts and bodies. This book uses a comparative approach, analysing case law from international sources. It focuses on three key areas, namely trends and features, legal grounds for litigation, and legal standing before courts.

Corporate Criminal Liability in Environmental Jurisprudence

Indrajit Dube Rajiv Gandhi School of Intellectual Property Law, West Bengali, India, Mia Mahmudur Rahim

Series: Routledge Research in International Environmental Law

Environmental jurisprudence is a dynamic field that integrates insights from various disciplines, including basic sciences, earth science, economics, and law. At its core, this discipline emphasizes the importance of enforcing rights, as environmental pollution poses significant threats to individuals and society as a whole. Addressing pollution as a wrong or crime demands a nuanced understanding of the law, making the study of environmental jurisprudence essential. Highlighting the urgent need for accountability but also inspiring action toward a sustainable future, this book will interest legal scholars researching on criminal liability and environmental law.

Corporate Environmental Responsibility and Pollution Control Laws

The Case of Oil Spills in the Niger Delta

Millicent Ele

Series: Routledge Research in International Environmental Law

This book critically examines the corporate environmental responsibility of major oil companies operating in Nigeria's Niger Delta, focusing on oil spills and comparing regulatory frameworks in Nigeria, the US, the UK, and the EU. It provides a theoretical foundation for holding these companies to the same environmental standards in Nigeria as they adhere to in more advanced jurisdictions. Analysing Shell's oil spill environmental performance data, the book assesses how its operations in Nigeria compare with global performance figures. This book will be of interest to researchers in the field of environmental law, pollution and land law.

Critical Children's Rights Studies

A Research Companion

Edited by Valeria Llobet , Didier Reynaert , Afua Twum-Danso Imoh , Wouter Vandenhoe University of Antwerp, Belgium

The field of Children's Rights Studies is well established and largely dominated by a top-down approach that considers these rights as objective standards requiring implementation in practice or policy. This book argues for a critical perspective which views the area as contested terrain with conflicting normative foundations and traditions. Containing both empirical and theoretical scholarship, the book will be an essential resource for students, academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the multidisciplinary areas of Childhood Studies, Children's Rights Studies and International Human Rights.

Hate Speech and the European Court of Human Rights

Natalie Alkiviadou Justitia, Denmark.

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book argues that the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR) should reconsider its approach to hate speech cases and develop a robust protection of freedom of expression. Viewing the ECHR as a 'living instrument' the book places this analysis within the current state of affairs vis-à-vis the handling of hate speech, particularly online, by European countries, the European Union itself and social media platforms, actions which the author argues are contributing to a free speech demise. The book will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the area of Law, Political Science, European Studies and Sociology.

Irregular Migration, Refugee Status and the Law

Protection from Dangerous Migratory Journeys

Maja Grundler

Series: Law and Migration

Through an investigation of the protection needs of 'irregularised migrants', this book offers a novel approach to the phenomenon of irregular migration by reframing it as a matter of refugee law. Thousands of people have died, disappeared, and suffered mental and physical harm on their dangerous migratory journeys to Europe. This book addresses an issue which, so far, has been largely omitted from the study of refugee law: the fact that harm experienced during irregular migration is often as serious as harm feared by recognised refugees in their countries of origin.

Protection of Human Life at Sea in International Law

Rescuing Maritime Migrants

Aphrodite Papachristodoulou

Series: Law and Migration

This book exposes the human rights violations against migrants attempting to cross the Mediterranean Sea, critiques the inadequate European legal responses, and strongly advocates for the development of a framework for operationalising the protection of human rights – and life – at sea. It combines theory and practice in which philosophical theories of rights are applied to create a framework for legal analysis and the development of practical legal standards. The book will be of interest to all those engaging with migration and security studies, international human rights scholarship, international law of the sea, refugee and migration law and legal philosophy.

The Human Rights Principle of Indivisibility

Dorothea Anthony

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book provides a comprehensive explanation and analysis of indivisibility — its meaning(s), history, ideological significance, benefits, and shortfalls. The work examines representations of indivisibility across multiple legal and academic sources from the last several decades in which interest in indivisibility and human rights has grown exponentially. It illustrates the human rights community's sincere enthusiasm for indivisibility. The book will be of interest to academics, researchers, and policy-makers working in the areas of human rights studies, international law, political science, and the humanities.

Liabilities and Modern Artificial Intelligence

A Tri-Phase Model

Estelle Wallingford Monash University

Series: Law and Change

This book addresses how private law liability should be assigned in contexts where modern forms of AI are deployed. AI as a technology holds the potential to radically improve global society, yet the pace of its advancement far outstrips the pace at which legal systems are responding. This book explores legal approaches to AI, how AI should be legally characterised, and proposes an overarching theoretical liability framework termed the Tri-Phase AI Liability Model. This framework is flexible in nature and considers the type of AI, the context in which it is deployed, who has the most control over the AI system and the capacity of a deployed AI.

Litigating Corporate Surveillance

Privacy, Autonomy, Power, and Democracy in the Courtroom

David Rudolph

This book interrogates the legality of corporate surveillance, offering a corrective approach to protecting privacy through litigation—not through legislation. Analysing recent developments in data privacy law in light of ever-increasing data aggregation and cybersurveillance practices by corporations and governments, the volume examines the pervasive, multimodal corporate surveillance practices that now permeate both our digital and offline lives, and offers a prescription for fighting back through the courts. It will be of interest to researchers and practitioners in the field of corporate surveillance, digital law, and privacy law.

Routledge Handbook of NFT Law

Edited by Pınar Çağlayan Aksoy Bilkent Üniversitesi Hukuk Fakültesi, Turkey, Larry Dimatteo, Saskia Hufnagel University of Sydney Law School, Australia

Series: Routledge Handbooks in Law

Non-Fungible Tokens (NFTs) are types of crypto assets that function on the blockchain. Anything that one can digitize has the potential of becoming an NFT. While NFTs raise similar issues as other crypto assets, there are many use cases and characteristics that call for special attention. At a time when individual countries have started responding to various legal issues, this volume examines these matters from a comparative law perspective. It approaches NFTs from a multidisciplinary perspective and provides in-depth information about the potential legal problems that arise from their use and transfer. It will be an essential resource for researchers of Technology and Law.

Art and Copyright Law

An Interdisciplinary Study on Interpictoriality

Giulia Walter

Series: Intellectual Property, Theory, Culture

This book tackles the lack of synchronicity between art and copyright law, proposing practical and interdisciplinary tools through which to navigate this conflict. In the last decades, high profile lawsuits have been filed against artists accused of plagiarism including Jeff Koons, Barbara Kruger and Andy Warhol. This book demonstrates how these cases are at odds with contemporary artistic reality, in which the use of antecedent visual forms is common practice. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of art and copyright law, intellectual property and art.

Copyright Law in Photographic Works

Authorship, Originality and Protection

Faisal Alamri

Series: Routledge Research in Intellectual Property

This book presents an original theory of copyright authorship tailored for photographic works, grounded in the concepts of categorical intention, channeled selection, and causation. By addressing the unique dual nature of photography, where mechanical processes intersect with creative choices, it offers a fresh perspective on a longstanding legal challenge. This book will be of interest to researchers in copyright law and intellectual property law, especially those engaged with the legal treatment of mechanically produced creative works. It offers valuable insights into the evolving relationship between law, technology, and authorship in the digital age.

Couture Fashion Law

Copyright and Artistic Works

Tomruk Üstünkaya

Series: Routledge Research in Fashion Law

This book provides an insight into the legal workings of the most ostentatious fashion sector, couture, whilst simultaneously advocating for stronger legal protection in this industry. Offering an interdisciplinary approach, including art theory from Tolstoy and Rand amongst others, it examines where couture fashion sits within the law. Most significantly the book considers the couturier as an 'artist' and couture as 'art' in relation to how this art form may be protected legally by copyright. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of fashion law, copyright law, art and intellectual property.

Decolonising Intellectual Property Law

An Afrocentric Approach

Edited by Jade Kouletakis, Nkem Itanyi

Series: Routledge Research in Intellectual Property

Highlighting the Eurocentric influence on the history of intellectual property law in Africa, the book demonstrates how this contradicts traditional African community culture. This book makes the case for legitimising cultural expressions of traditional communities despite the western legal framework within which they exist, reimagining a decolonised IP framework whereby African histories are centred. Questioning the fundamentals of the current IP landscape, such as the concept of eligibility in copyright which developed alongside European technological advances, the book also details the role of the courts in resolving IP disputes.

Patents and Global Administrative Law

Values, Principles, and Challenges

David Tilt

The book applies values and concepts from Global Administrative Law (GAL) to international patent law, demonstrating how limiting technocratic and overly economic language can be. Highlighting the administrative foundations of patent law, the book argues that, in its international form, it can be analysed using the same principles of participation, transparency, and accountability found in national administrative law. A fundamental objective of the book is to challenge the tendency towards technocratic isolation in patent law. The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of patent law, international law and administrative law.

Postcolonial Copyright Law

Lessons on Community and Coloniality from Thailand

Mespiti Poolsavasdi

Series: Intellectual Property, Theory, Culture

This book appraises postcolonial perspectives to rethink the meaning of copyright, and makes suggestions for its future within the global landscape of intellectual property law. Drawing on the experience of Thailand as a case study, a country with a unique yet marginal position in discussions on colonialism, the volume offers valuable insights for the international field of copyright law. Taking an interdisciplinary approach informed by film studies, area studies, decolonial studies and legal sociology, the book makes a case to redefine copyright as a community resource. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of copyright law, postcolonial and decolonial studies.

Consumer Collective Redress in EU Law

Lessons from the Polish Legal System

Jagna Mucha

Series: Routledge Research in EU Law

This book critically examines the framework of consumer collective redress within EU law, with a particular focus on Poland, where such measures have operated since 2009. Through examining Poland's 15 years of experience, this serves as a comprehensive case study, offering valuable insights and lessons. In exploring whether collective redress mechanisms can ensure effective enforcement of consumer rights while also guaranteeing a high level of legal protection, it investigates the mechanism of representative actions as a potential tool. This book will be of interest to researchers focused on EU consumer law, collective redress, class actions, and law enforcement more broadly.

Legal and Geopolitical Complexity in the Arctic

The Impact of Global Crises on Regional Competition

Tiziana Melchiorre

Series: Routledge Research in Polar Law

This book examines the evolving geopolitical landscape of the Arctic, focusing on the impact of climate change and the war in Ukraine on regional and international relations from a legal and geopolitical perspective. It highlights the interconnection between regional and global dynamics and argues that climate change and geopolitical conflict are transforming the Arctic from the "last frontier" into the "first frontier"; a strategic arena where states, both within and beyond the region, seek to assert their geopolitical and economic interests. The book will be of interest to researchers within international relations, public international law, environmental law and Arctic law.

Introduction to International Economic Law

Edited by Fulvio M. Palombino

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law

International Economic Law (IEL) refers to the rules governing economic relations at the international level and involving States, international organizations and private entities. This textbook explores IEL within the broader context of public international law from the ground up, providing all the foundational principles of international law essential for the study of IEL. Introduction to International Economic Law provides a clear and concise primer on the main issues in current IEL. It will be an ideal textbook for students taking introductory courses in IEL, as well as a useful guide for anyone wishing to learn about the subject and understand the dynamics behind it.

The Social Contract Rediscovered

Consent's Onto-Epistemological Integrity in the Late 20th Century

Wenwei Guan City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Series: Routledge Research in International Law

This book conducts a critical analysis of the historical evolution of legitimacy, tracing its development from natural law to positive law and finally to post-modern critiques. It fills a scholarly gap by addressing the overlooked aspect of the consent process. The book begins with a recap of the historical development of social contract theory. It draws from a broad base of jurisprudential and social theories to think through how social contract's rise and fall forms an integral part of legitimacy's modernization process from the Enlightenment driven Industrial Revolution's global proliferation to the end of the 20th century.

Christian Natural Law and Religious Freedom

A Foundation Based on Love, the True, and the Good

Alex Deagon Queensland Uni of Tech

Deagon addresses the need for a robust theoretical foundation for religious freedom that accounts for its transcendent nature. What is the idea of religious freedom? Where does it come from? Why should it be protected? These important questions for understanding religious freedom are usually addressed through secular and immanent foundations which are unable to sufficiently grapple with the religious nature of religious freedom – its connection with the divine. Deagon proposes an alternative approach rooted in Christian Natural Law.

The Evolution of Justice, Equity and Equality

Practical Wisdom from the Past

Edited by Iwona Barwicka-Tylek, Jan Halberda, Maciej Mikula

Series: Routledge Studies in Comparative Legal History

This book presents a comprehensive exploration of historical perspectives on justice, equity, and equality, which have been, and still are, considered as the core political values of any balanced political system. By bridging the disciplines of history, law, and philosophy, the book demonstrates the interconnectedness of these fields and highlights how historical legal concepts can inform contemporary discussions. As such, it will be a valuable resource for academics and researchers working in these and related areas.

The Illegality Defence in Law

A Constitutional and Human Rights Perspective

Edit Deutch

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

This book re-examines the application of the Illegality Defence, framing it as a State deprivation of property for the public good, underscoring the necessity of constitutional protections in this context. The work explores the development, interpretation, and application of the Illegality Defence within a constitutional framework, bridging the gap between private and public law. This approach seeks to enhance legal certainty and predictability in the application of the Illegality Defence. The study will be essential reading for academics and researchers working in the areas of legal theory, human rights law, and jurisprudence.

The Legal System of the Vatican City State

Between Secular and Canon Law

Konrad Dyda

Series: Law and Religion

This book examines one of the fundamental phenomena in jurisprudence, Legal Transplants (reception of law), the study of which allows us both to determine the relationships between various legal systems and between civil law and other normative systems. Taking the Vatican City State as a case study, the work explores the theoretical and practical significance of canon law in the legal system. It analyses the sources of law and how it is applied in practice, especially in the jurisprudence of the Vatican courts and other bodies applying the law. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Law and Religion, Canon Law and Legal Philosophy.

Understanding Accountability: New Perspectives on a Fractured World

Edited by Matthew Flinders University of Sheffield, UK, Gergana Dimova, Chris Monaghan

Series: Routledge Frontiers in Accountability Studies

This book brings clarity and understanding to the concept of accountability through the lens of conceptual political analysis. It is argued here that accountability has emerged to become a concept with adjectives and there is a real need to properly understand accountability in an increasingly fractured world. This broad-ranging collection increases the conceptual toolkit that social and political scientists and lawyers can use to interrogate change at a number of levels and in a range of sectors. The volume will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Legal and Political Theory, Legal and Political Philosophy and Accountability Studies.

Alternatives to Incarceration

Opportunities and Challenges in Reducing Violations and Revocations in Community Corrections

Edited by Ebony L. Ruhland

Historically, alternatives to incarceration were developed to reduce prison populations and decrease the fiscal cost of incarceration. They were to function as a diversion away from prison. Alternatives also keep people in the community while holding them accountable and protecting community safety. The book underscores the importance of ongoing research and the need for effective strategies to reduce violations and revocations. Chapters in this book address how barriers, such as mental illness, COVID-19, and financial constraints, may impede success on supervision and highlight in the findings ways to increase success despite these barriers.

The Digital Courtroom

Participation, Attendance, Engagement and Consumption

Lisa Flower Lund University, Sweden

Series: Routledge Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice and Procedure

The digitalisation of courtrooms brings both opportunities and challenges to the judicial process, shaping our understandings of trials and their participants in a myriad of unexpected ways, and transforming how we participate in, attend, engage with, and consume trials. The author examines the social construction of courts in the digital age and argues that digitalisation is not merely transforming the tools of justice but is redefining the essence of the justice experience and transforming our perceptions of trials and their participants. The work will be a valuable resource for scholars and students in the social sciences, law and all those interested in digitalisation and society.

Artificial Intelligence, Humans and the Law

Edited by Henrik Palmer Olsen, Jacob Livingston Slosser, Salome Addo Ravn, Johan Eddebo, Jonas Hultin Rosenberg

Series: Artificial Intelligence, Law and Society

This book takes up the contentious issue of artificial intelligence (AI), and more specifically the evolving nature of AI-mindedness, as a legal entity in society. With the increasing potential of AI suggested by the recent surge in creative and administrative tools and large language models, there is a growing concern about the ethical and legal implications of incorporating AI into society. This book will be of considerable interest to scholars and researchers working in legal theory, socio-legal studies, law and technology, and science and technology studies.

Framing Devices and Global Legal Traditions

From the Ancient World to the Modern Nation State

Edited by Laura Culbertson, Susan Longfield Karr

Series: Routledge Studies in Comparative Legal History

This collection explores prefaces, prologues, paratexts, and other types of framing devices. It offers new ways to consider the significance of framing apparatuses regarding how and why they are created, remembered, forgotten, utilized, and recovered within legal traditions. The studies range from the ancient world to the modern nation-state system, aiming to explore the intersections and collisions between juridical and political interpretation practices. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers in the areas of Legal History, Comparative Law, Legal Cultures and Traditions, Legal Theory, Jurisprudence, Constitutional Law and Legislative Drafting.

Law and the Exception

Towards a New Paradigm

Gian Giacomo Fusco, Przemysław Tacik

Series: Nomos Studies in Law, Culture and Power

This book proposes a paradigm shift in understanding 'the state of exception' in legal and political theory. It argues that exceptional measures need to be rethought beyond traditional boundaries. It develops concepts of 'exceptionality' and 'exceptionalisation' to show how exceptional measures are normalized outside classic frameworks, as demonstrated during COVID-19. Legal systems may disguise the exceptional as normal without formal declarations. It also analyzes how emergency laws reflect broader patterns of exceptionality, shaped by accumulated symbols, practices, and legal imagination, while revealing hidden authoritarian tendencies within liberal constitutionalism.

Legal and Ethical Retributivism

A Restorative Analysis

Halil Cesur

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

This book explores a foundational philosophical tension in contemporary retributivism, revealing ambiguities in its approach to punishment between two conflicting conceptions of restoration: legal justice and ethical love. Through an analysis of the three parties involved in a crime—the victim, the offender, and the state—it argues that neo-retributivism has not sufficiently incorporated the ethical face of punishment into its theoretical framework. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Philosophy of Punishment, Criminal Law Theory, Criminal Justice, Restorative Justice, Philosophy of Law, Political Philosophy and Hegel scholarship.

Executive Dominance in Times of Crisis

Governing by Decree and the Pandemic

Camila Almeida Porfiro

Series: Routledge Research in Public Law

This book argues that the frequent use of unilateral acts by the executive, exacerbated in times of emergency, can lead to a process of serious democratic erosion. It holds that the unlimited expansion of unilateral action is incompatible with the principle of separation of powers and the basic elements of a constitutional democracy. The book offers a contemporary analysis of executive dominance in Brazil, Italy, and Germany, particularly in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Constitutional Law and Politics, Administrative Law; International and Comparative Law.

Freedom of Religion and Constitutional Law

Traversing Myth and Modernity in India

Amit Bindal

Series: ICLARS Series on Law and Religion

This book investigates the intersection of religion and modern law. It explores how secular courts encounter the religious or mythical question which is disavowed by modern institutions. It questions the private-public dichotomy of liberal constitutionalism which relegates religion to the private sphere, with a particular focus on ex-colonial societies like India which are foundationally and diversely religious. The book will be a valuable resource for students and academics working on Law, Religious Studies, History and Political Science.

Representative Democracy in Flux

Deconstructive Narratives from a Legal and Constitutional Perspective

Edited by Martin Belov

Series: Routledge Research in Constitutional Law

This book delves into the core of representative democracy in order to explain its main features – institutional and imaginary – and to show the reasons for its increasing dysfunctionality. It explores the constitutional imaginaries of representation. It outlines the main factors influencing the failures of representative democracy, in an age of constitutional crisis and transition, being gradually deconstructed via tendencies towards authoritarianism and technocracy. The work will be of interest to researchers, academics, and policy-makers in Constitutional Law and Politics, Comparative Constitutional Law, Administrative Law, Human Rights Law, and Theory and Philosophy of Law.

Public Law and the UK Supreme Court

Key Cases and Decisions

Edited by Lewis Graham, Jenny Russell

This volume brings together expert commentators across different fields of Public Law to comment on a key decision by the UK Supreme Court (UKSC). Each author explores their case's content, as well as its broader implications for public law as a field and the Supreme Court as an institution. The work is divided into the following areas: Constitutional Law; Administrative Law and Judicial Review; Human Rights; and Criminal Law and Criminal Justice. It will be an invaluable resource for academics, researchers, practitioners, judges and policymakers.

The Politics of Democratic Representation

Enfranchisement and Participation Revisited

Edited by Benjamin Boudou, Marcus Carlsen Häggrot

The book discusses boundaries of electoral inclusion and mechanisms of electoral representation in contemporary democracies. Looking at the (dis)enfranchisement of children, cognitively disabled persons, and refugees, and discussing the forms of representation that might be afforded to external voters, future generations, and non-citizens, the contributions develop innovative arguments applying the basic principles of electoral democracy to the complexities of specific, real-world cases. Doing so, the contributions offer timely, yet unorthodox, perspectives on the theory and practice of electoral democracy.

Race, Ethnicity, Nationality and the Law

Legal Paradoxes in Conceptualization and Operationalization

András L. Pap

This book provides a complex insight into how law, as a distinct tool and technology, conceptualizes and operationalizes race, ethnicity and nationality. The book shows that although identity politics has dominated the past decades, ethno-racial self-identification is not the only operationalizing model legal regimes apply, especially with the recent boost in artificial intelligence, and bio-genetic research. The methodology applied is comparative constitutional and international law, but the research will have wider interdisciplinary appeal offering a novel perspective for a broad audience in social sciences and humanities.

International Maritime Law and Practice

Comparative Law in Context

Časlav Pejović

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

This book provides a different perspective on the ever-popular topic of maritime law, emphasising historical and comparative aspects. It provides the reader with a broader view of how maritime law has developed throughout history and operates within various legal systems. This book will be of interest to lawyers working in shipping companies, law firms specializing in shipping, international organizations related to shipping and maritime law, and international traders. It also provides invaluable aid to shipmasters and ship officers, and will be of direct relevance to maritime law scholars and students.

The Beijing Convention on the Judicial Sales of Ships

Edited by D. Rhidian Thomas University of Swansea, UK

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

Focusing solely on the UN Convention on the International Effects of Judicial Sales of Ships 2023 (the 'Beijing Convention'), this unique book offers a full and detailed understanding of the way the Convention functions, its areas of difficulty and ambiguity, and how it relates to present law in common law and civilian jurisdictions. As the Beijing Convention is currently a highly relevant topic to the international legal maritime world in all its aspects, governments, lawyers, academic institutions, students and the shipping industry will be interested in the content of this book.

The Law and Practice of Maritime Liens

Damien J Cremean

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

This book uniquely offers a single point of reference on the vital legal subject of maritime liens, intrinsic to Admiralty Law and a topic often incompletely understood by shipping firms and other such businesses. The Law and Practice of Maritime Liens offers a comprehensive and accessible guide to the topic for anyone directly or indirectly involved in the maritime sector, but it is most directly relevant to legal practitioners (especially in maritime law and marine insurance areas) in practice within each of the relevant jurisdictions, shipowners, charterers and corporations involved in the maritime sector.

Maritime Insurance and the Law

Legal Action Against Protection and Indemnity Club

Feray Firinciogullari

This book provides a comprehensive examination of direct-action rights within Protection and Indemnity (P&I) Clubs, a cornerstone of the maritime industry, providing robust insights into the interplay of legal frameworks and maritime insurance in an increasingly globalized industry. Through a comparative analysis of English and Turkish legal approaches, the book examines how these differing frameworks affect the development and functioning of P&I insurance. The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of maritime law, maritime insurance and insurance law.

How Autocrats Subvert Elections

Resistance to Trump and Trumpism

Richard L. Abel

Series: Defending American Democracy

Chronicle and analyzing resistance to the threat that autocracy poses to American liberal democracy, this book provides the definitive account of the response to the January 6, 2021, assault on the Capitol and Republican efforts to overturn the 2020 election and bias future elections in their favor. This definitive account and analysis of Trump and his supporters' attempts to subvert the 2020 election will appeal to scholars, students and others with interests in politics, populism and the rule of law and, more specifically, to those concerned with resisting the threat that autocracy poses to liberal democracy.

Human Trafficking and Disabilities

Edited by Daniela Peterka-Benton, Elizabeth Bowman

This book explores the intersection of disabilities and human trafficking, focusing on cognitive, developmental, sensory, and physical disabilities before, during, and after the trafficking experience. The relationship between trafficking experiences and disabilities is complex. Individuals with pre-existing disabilities may be more vulnerable to trafficking due to inadequate social safety nets. At the same time, survivors may develop disabilities as a consequence of their trafficking experiences. The research featured illustrates a relationship between access to social connections and therapeutic services and the increased risk of exploitation for individuals with disabilities.

Law in a Technological Context

Disruptions and Transitions

Edited by Roger Brownsword

This edited collection explores the disruptive effects of technology on law, in the challenge presented to regulators as they strive to manage the transition from one technological state to another (such as the transition from analogue to digital, or from fossil fuels to green renewables), and in the opportunities (and challenges) presented as regulators transition from traditional rule-based legal governance to governance that relies on new technologies and tools.

Law, Technology and Disruption

Towards a Comprehensive Regulatory Framework

Edited by Tianxiang He

Law, Technology and Disruption investigates how technological innovation affects legal systems together with regulatory frameworks. This volume brings together leading scholars to examine the evolving relationship between law and technological disruption, as digital advancements challenge long standing legal principles. It examines key areas such as algorithmic decision-making and digital agricultural intellectual property to assess how disruptive technologies are testing legal norms. This book was originally published as a special issue of Law, Technology and Disruption.

Law, Technology and Governance

Roger Brownsword

This book argues that law, regulation, and technology can be understood as particular kinds of governance projects, and their credentials assessed according to an overarching concept of good governance. This book will be of interest to legal researchers and postgraduates in the burgeoning field of law, regulation and technology; as well as others with more general interests in issues of law and governance.

Narratives of Consent and Reproductive Subjects

Tales of Invisibility

Edited by Samantha Halliday, Rebecca Brione Rebecca Brione is Research and Partnerships Officer for the British charity, Birthrights, Jacqueline Nicholls Dr Jacqueline Nicholls is an Associate Professor at the Institute for Women's Health, University College London, UK.

This collection brings together a range of researchers from multiple disciplines to address the issue of choice in the context of reproduction, focussing upon narratives of consent as they pertain to reproductive subjects who all too often are rendered invisible by the law, by the healthcare professionals treating them, or by society. It presents original research, bringing together multiple perspectives in examining the way in which individuals are rendered invisible in the context of reproductive healthcare. The book will be essential reading for academics and professionals in law, nursing, medicine, midwifery, sociology, ethics and anthropology.

Older Persons and the Law

John Williams Aberystwyth University, UK

This book explores the law and legal system's impact on older persons. As well as describing the current law primarily in England and in Wales, it highlights the pivotal role that elder law lawyers play in using that law to challenge and combat ageism effectively. Important questions are raised about whether the law perpetuates ageism and whether the current working of the law effectively challenges discrimination, abuse, and social exclusion faced by older persons. This book will interest researchers specialising in family and social welfare law, elder law, human rights law and discrimination law.
