A Historical Sociology of Disability

Human Validity and Invalidity from Antiquity to Early Modernity

Bill Hughes

Series: Routledge Advances in Disability Studies

Covering the period from Antiquity to Early Modernity, A Historical Sociology of Disability argues that disabled people have been treated in western society as good to mistreat and – with the rise of Christianity – good to be good to. A Historical Sociology of Disability will be of interest to all scholars, students and activists working in the field of disability studies, as well as sociology, education, philosophy, theology and history. It will appeal to anyone who is interested in the past, present and future of the 'last civil rights movement'.

Disability

The Basics

Tom Shakespeare University of East Anglia, UK.

Series: The Basics

Disability: The Basics is an engaging and accessible introduction to disability which explores the broad historical, social, environmental, economic and legal factors which affect the experiences of those living with an impairment or illness in today's society. The book aims to provide readers with an understanding of the lived experiences of disabled people and highlight the problems and gaps that still exist in how society responds to the challenge of disability. This book is suitable for students of disability studies as well as students taking a disability module as part of a wider course within social work, health care, sociology, nursing, policy and media studies.

The Ethical Foundations of Social Work

Stephen Cowden, Annie Pullen-Sansafocon

The Ethical Foundations of Social Work provides you with an engaging, theoretical and practice-based grounding in social work ethics. The authors first examine when, how and why principles and debates historically emerged, then explicitly map them onto everyday ethical challenges and situations in social work practice. As a result, the book promotes an ethically conscious approach where principles can be flexibly and confidently applied as tools to help you with critical problem solving.

4TH EDITION

Social Work in Health Settings

Practice in Context

Toba Schwab Kerson Bryn Mawr College, USA, Judith L.M. McCoyd Rutgers University, USA

Social Work in Health Settings: Practice in Context maintains its use of the Practice in Context (PIC) decision-making framework to explore a wide range of social work services in health care settings. The PIC framework is used to cover a broad range of social work practice sites, settings and populations over 30 case chapters. Fully updated to reflect the landscape of health care provision in the US since the Affordable Care Act was passed, the cases are grounded by 'primer' chapters to illustrate the necessary decisional and foundational skills for best practices in social work in health settings.

Modern Social Work Practice

Teaching and Learning in Practice Settings

Mark Doel, Steven M. Shardlow

Modern Social Work Practice is an interactive book designed to provide readers with an opportunity to engage with key aspects of current social work practice. It also provides an excellent digest of the significant literature. Each chapter is introduced with an activity or exercise designed to aid student learning in discrete aspects of practice, building up to a complete curriculum for practice learning. The book builds upon the success and style of Social Work Practice (1993) and The New Social Work Practice (1998). Mark Doel and Steven M. Shardlow have shaped the book to take account of the National Occupational Standards for Social Work, aiming to provide a creative, practical and up-to-date resource for teaching and learning in line with current practices.

The Social Workers' Toolbox

Sustainable Multimethod Social Work

Herman de Mönink Retired Senior Lecturer, Hanze University, Groningen, The Netherlands

This book aims to bring order to the diversity of methods which is so typical of social work. The tools described can be directly put into practice and adapted to the social worker's personalised approach with their clients. Useful for both the inexperienced and the more practiced social worker, the book provides a solid basis through the use of numerous practical examples and offers the more experienced social worker a substantial resource and the means to legitimise a chosen course of action and social work intervention. Schools of social work will be able to use the book as an easily accessible resource for social work assessments, interventions and quality social work management.

What Social Workers Need to Know

A Psychoanalytic Approach

Edited by Marion Bower , Robin Solomon

This book demonstrates a way of thinking for the social work practitioner that can be used in all situations through the use of psychoanalysis. It examines in detail some of the difficult and disturbing conversations that social workers have with clients of all ages. It provides a psychoanalytic framework for understanding circumstances which may be puzzling, stressful or frightening, and a theory whose value for many social work problems is well underpinned by research evidence. Written by senior practitioners who are all still working in the front line, this book puts complex practitioner experiences into words, to help the social worker become a more effective practitioner.

Practical Social Work Law

Analysing Court Cases and Inquiries

Siobhan E. Laird

Practical Social Work Law: analysing court cases and inquiries presents legal issues associated with social work in an accessible format. It approaches the law in a way that is less daunting and more engaging by examining actual court cases and public inquiries, and explores the stories of real people and the legal and ethical dilemmas practitioners will face. The text adopts a problem-centred approach to learning by introducing the reader to key aspects of the law through a series of real-life situations; it addresses basic principles regarding the operation of the law and explores the lessons for good practice. Each chapter addresses a specific area of social work law including family breakdown, safeguarding children, youth justice, adults with disabilities, mental health and mental capacity. Landmark cases, cases drawn from the lower courts, tribunals, and ombudsmen's decisions are included throughout presenting an accessible account

Complexity and Social Work

Hans Van Ewijk Utrecht University of Applied Sciences, The Netherlands.

Being socially competent is essential in late modern society. We expect that people will find their own accommodation, partner, job, community and lifestyle and struggle to find answers for people who are unable or don't have the opportunity to achieve these things. By placing social complexity, social vulnerability and social-efficacy within a framework of social policy and social practice, this book argues that growing social complexity excludes more and more citizens from social participation.

Edited by Laura Béres, Jan Fook Leeds Trinity University, UK and Royal Holloway, University of London, UK.

Learning Critical Reflection documents the actual learning experiences of social work students and practitioners. It explores how a more in-depth understanding of the process of learning, combined with an analysis of how to critically reflect, will help improve the learning process. It should be considered essential reading for social work students, practitioners and educators.

Reflective Thinking in Social Work

Learning from student narratives

Mekada Julia Graham California State University, USA

It is vital that social work students learn to integrate their personal and professional selves if they are to meet the challenges of social work in complex changing environments. This accessible text is designed to enable readers to explore and build on their existing skills and abilities, supporting them to become competent and self-aware reflective practitioners. Discussing issues such as identity, motivation to enter the social work profession and lived experiences in the journey into social work, the book brings together stories of hardship, privilege, families, hopes, interests and community activism from many diverse ethnic backgrounds.

Researching Critical Reflection

Multidisciplinary Perspectives

Edited by Jan Fook Kingston University and St Georges, University of London, UK, Val Collington Kingston University and St Georges, University of London, UK, Fiona Ross Kingston University and St George's, University of London, UK, Gillian Ruch University of Sussex, UK, Linden West Canterbury Christ Church University, UK

This timely work contributes to the development of the research aspect of critical reflection in professional practice (what is researched, how it is researched and how it might be used as a research method) so that it might be taught, learnt and practised better. It develops a more comprehensive, multi-disciplinary view of the current state of critical reflection and the research directions which need to be taken. It is an important reference for all students, practitioners, and researchers – including in the areas of education, management, health and social work – who need to engage with critical reflection as part of their practice.

Challenging Parental Alienation

New Directions for Professionals and Parents

Edited by Jean Mercer , Margaret Drew

This book addresses the concept of parental alienation - the belief that when a child of divorced parents avoids one parent, it may be because the preferred parent has persuaded the child to do this. It argues against the unquestioning use of parental alienation concepts in child custody conflicts. This book will be useful reading for lawyers, judges, children's services workers including social workers, child protection court workers and mental health professionals involved in child custody decisions.

Gerontological Social Work in Action

Anti-Oppressive Practice with Older Adults, their Families, and Communities

Wendy Hulko , Ilyan Ferrer , Shari Brotman , Louise Stern

Gerontological Social Work in Action introduces 'anti-oppression gerontology' (AOG), a critical approach to social work with older adults, their families, and communities. AOG principles are applied to direct and indirect practice and a range of topics of relevance to social work practice in the context of a rapidly aging world. This textbook should be considered essential reading to social work students new to aging and/or seeking to specialize as well as others interested in the application of anti-oppressive principles to working and researching with older adults.

Conducting Interviews with Child Victims of Abuse and Witnesses of Crime

A Practical Guide

Mireille Cyr Mireille Cyr is a licensed psychologist and a professor in the Department of Psychology at the Université de Montréal.

This book is a practical and thoughtful guide for the forensic interview of children, presenting a synthesis of the empirical and theoretical knowledge necessary to understand the account of child victims of abuse or witnesses of crime. It is a complex task to interview children who are suspected of being abused in order to gather their stories, requiring the mastery of many skills and knowledge. This book is innovative by the constant links that are made between the results of the research into interviewing and understanding the accounts of child victims of abuse or witnesses of crime and its significance for the interventions made to the field.

Promoting Young People's Wellbeing through Empowerment and Agency

A Critical Framework for Practice

Lucy Maynard Brathay Trust, UK, Karen Stuart

This book bridges the theory-practice divide, offering a clear and definitive guide to concepts and practical ways to develop young people's wellbeing. It examines the concept of wellbeing and its intrinsic relationship to social justice both theoretically and through case study material, and locates these practices within critical pedagogy. This book will benefit students and practitioners who work with young people to realise wellbeing and to embed critical pedagogy in their practice. It also provides a frame of reference to critically engage in policy analysis and is essential reading for social workers, teachers, police support officers and anyone working to empower young people.

2ND EDITION

Raising Parents

Attachment, Representation, and Treatment

Patricia Crittenden Family Relations Institute, USA

Understanding and helping troubled parents is of crucial importance for the parents themselves, for their children and for society at large. This new edition provides a systematic account of parental behaviour and the means of identifying and addressing inadequate parenting. It provides an accessible overview of the Dynamic-Maturational Model of attachment and adaptation, and presents a developmentally attuned, life-span set of procedures for assessing self-protective strategies. Updated throughout, it is designed for all practitioners who work with children or adults who were harmed as children and for students who plan to work with this group.

Therapy with Harming Fathers, Victimized Children and their Mothers after Parental Child Sexual Assault

Forging Enduring Safety

Dale Tolliday, Jo Spangaro, Lesley Laing

Parental child sexual assault is the most hidden and complex forms of child abuse and one of the most difficult to guard against. This is the first book to provide an evidence-based approach to working with parental child sexual assault which includes intervention with the offender, child victim, mothers, other non-offending parents and family members.

Understanding and Responding to Child Sexual Exploitation

Edited by Helen Beckett University of Bedfordshire, UK,
Jenny Pearce University of Bedfordshire, UK

Addressing contemporary questions about the definitions and prevention of child sexual exploitation (CSE), this book looks at how, where and why disclosure and recognition of this form of abuse takes place. It brings together a range of perspectives and theoretical frameworks to help us understand CSE and also probes into modes of detection and prevention. Drawing on ongoing research in the field, the authors examine how knowledge of CSE is developing and also identify steps for advancing the needs and interests of sexually exploited children and young people in the future. It will be of interest to researchers and practitioners involved in social work, child protection and safeguarding.

2ND EDITION

Working with Vulnerable Children, Young People and Families

Edited by Graham Brotherton Newman University, UK,
Mark Cronin Newman University, UK

This fully revised and expanded edition considers the meaning of 'vulnerability' – a key concept in early intervention – and the relationship between vulnerability and the individual, communities and society. It includes new chapters on children's voices, young people and vulnerability, and working with vulnerable parents. Supporting students in engaging with and evaluating the conceptualisation and application of vulnerability in professional practice, this book is suitable for anyone either preparing for or currently working within the children's workforce, from social work and health care to education and youth work.

3RD EDITION

Tackling Poverty and Social Exclusion

Promoting Social Justice in Social Work

John H. Pierson

Tackling Poverty and Social Exclusion seeks to capture the complexity and diversity of practice relating to social exclusion as it adapts to a challenging policy environment. The book outlines how social workers can work with vulnerable groups of people, particularly those in poverty, combating the social exclusion they experience and promoting social justice. Despite recent policy developments, it clearly and accessibly demonstrates how concepts and theories about social exclusion can still be used to improve social work practice.
