A First Nations Perspective

Stories of Nanda Resilience as Told by Elders

Steven Kelly

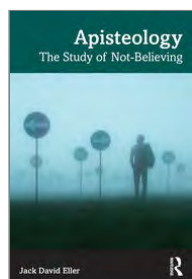

This book is an extrapolation of the research Kelly conducted for the doctoral thesis about his people's struggle to come to terms with native title claim processes, in which we are required to prove our connection to land, culture and kin. This book offers a compelling and profound journey of Nanda people's existence over time. It gives a robust understanding of the kinship and culture of my family group. Readers interested in Australian history, cultural studies and Indigenous studies will appreciate this book.

Apisteology

The Study of Not-Believing

Jack David Eller Woxsen University, India

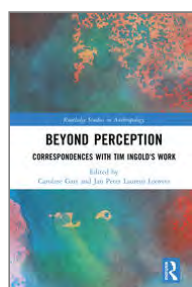

This book unites the burgeoning scholarly literature on not-believing in various disciplines into a proposed new field of apisteology. It demonstrates that not-believing—like not-knowing—is a worthy and distinct subject and not merely a vacuum where belief (like knowledge) is lacking. Several contemporary issues appear repeatedly in the book, such as conspiracy theories, vaccine skepticism, climate change denial, and fake news. It will be key reading for scholars and students across the social sciences and humanities.

Beyond Perception

Correspondences with Tim Ingold's Work

Edited by Caroline Gatt, Jan Peter Laurens Looers
University of Aberdeen, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology

This book showcases the way a range of scholars have engaged with Tim Ingold's opus since the publication of his ground-breaking The Perception of the Environment in 2000. By bringing together chapters from a variety of scholars, all critically furthering Ingold's proposals, the book advances a paradigm change occurring in various academic disciplines from 'fixist' to 'emergence' onto/epistemologies.

Change and the Internet

An Ethnographic Exploration of Remote Working

Jens Kjaerulff

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology

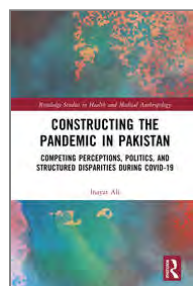

This book explores the significance of new information technology for socio-cultural change and provides ethnographic insight into the early days of remote working. It draws on long-term anthropological fieldwork among people in rural Denmark working from home via the internet. Going back to the late 1990s and early 2000s, the study demonstrates how remote and flexible working was mostly practiced informally, fostering incremental changes to the cultural domain of 'work'. The volume contains an updated introduction and conclusion where the author reflects on the historical moment of his fieldwork and on the impact of the recent Covid-19 pandemic on working practices.

Constructing the Pandemic in Pakistan

Competing Perceptions, Politics, and Structured Disparities during COVID-19

Inayat Ali

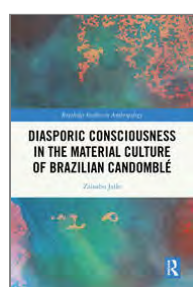

Series: Routledge Studies in Health and Medical Anthropology

With a focus on the way the COVID-19 pandemic unfolded in Pakistan, this book casts a critical light on the unique experiences and responses of individuals, community and government. It critically examines how these diverse actors made sense of and navigated the outbreak of disease. It enlists distinct imaginaries based on current understandings of an extraordinary challenge that holds significant importance for our human future. Constructing the Pandemic in Pakistan will interest scholars of anthropology, sociology, and the Global South as well as those working in the domains of global and public health.

Embracing Faith and Desire

Queer and Feminist Engagements with Islam and Christianity as Lived Religions

Edited by Viola Thimm, Ferdiansyah Thajib

Series: Gendering the Study of Religion in the Social Sciences

Embracing Faith and Desire investigates the intersection of gender, sexuality, and religion from an anthropological lens. Taking women's, non-binary, and queer religious life-worlds in Muslim and Christian contexts as a cross-cutting research theme, the book brings together scholars from different disciplines and regional contexts who are interested in the interconnectedness of gender dynamics, queerness, and religious principles.

Exploring Anthropology through Folklore and Mythology

Tok Thompson, Daniel Wojcik

Exploring Anthropology through Folklore and Mythology is a comprehensive textbook which examines how people around the world express themselves culturally, and how these practices and performances provide a window into the diversity of human culture. Topics include myths, folktales, architecture, online folklore, festivals, rituals and celebrations. The book also provides an in-depth look at linking these foundations to field work including guides on observations and interviews. It offers a fascinating introduction towards understanding global cultural diversity, and is an essential textbook for students making their first steps into folklore, anthropology and cultural studies.

Exploring Digital Ethnography

From Principles to Practice

Edited by Natalie Underberg-Goodie University of Central Florida, USA, Marty Otañez

Exploring Digital Ethnography: From Principles to Practice places digital ethnography within the context of the production of multimedia, multisensory "research-creation" pieces using a variety of methods, tools, and techniques. It reveals new insights into how digital tools can facilitate the deliberation process, and be used to materialize knowledge in new ways that engage with audiences in more dynamic formats. The book provides readers with new ways of producing knowledge, solving problems, engaging student learning, and communicating with the public. It will be a valuable text for researchers, educators, and students in digital ethnography and anthropology.

Human Alterity

A Brief History of Anthropological Thought

Carles Salazar

Human Alterity: A Brief History of Anthropological Thought offers an introduction to the history of anthropological thought and the concept of human alterity. Ever since the birth of our species, humans have wanted to understand people other than themselves. But what is an 'alter' human? Readers find a history of what has made humanity opaque to itself: a history of the theories about human alterity produced by some humans. It is a valuable book for both new and advanced students of anthropology, sociology, cultural studies, social history, post-colonial studies and to anyone concerned with the belief, fantasy and reality of human diversity.

Human Societies

A Brief Introduction

Mark Q. Sutton

Human Societies: A Brief Introduction succinctly covers the basic concepts of Cultural Anthropology in a way that is relevant and engaging to the introductory student. The book deals with topics such as sexuality, religion, how people adapt to their environments, the ways people organize themselves, foods and cuisines, climate change, refugees and migrants, and reproduction. The book also includes short "Spotlight" boxes that enlighten the reader about specific topics, as well as chapter summaries, exercises, key terms, and a comprehensive glossary. It is essential reading for undergraduate students making their first steps into Cultural and Applied Anthropology.

7TH EDITION

Kinship and Gender

An Introduction

Linda Stone Professor Emeritus of Anthropology at Washington State University, USA., Diane E. King

This fully revised seventh edition of Kinship and Gender: An Introduction explores kinship in today's globalized, increasingly mobile world, and how family structures continue to influence the varied roles that men and women play in different cultures. Written to engage students, each chapter provides key terms and useful generalizations gleaned through research on the interplay of kinship and gender in both traditional societies and contemporary communities. It provides a broad, yet nuanced introduction to the field, and is essential reading for students taking their first steps into anthropology, gender studies, and sociology.

Liang Shaoji's Silkworm Art

Untangling Multispecies Craft

Feixuan Xu

Series: Multispecies Anthropology

This book focuses on the work of Chinese contemporary artist Liang Shaoji and emphasises the contribution of multispecies ethnography to art criticism. Over three decades, Liang has worked with domestic silkworms to craft art that embodies the Daoism-inspired ecological motif of 'ziran'. This volume will be of particular interest to scholars working in the anthropology of art, human-animal studies, and environmental humanities.

Museum Temporalities

Time, History and the Future of the Ethnographic Museum

Edited by Wayne Modest, Peter Pels

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology and Museums

This volume is the first of its kind in focusing on the temporalities of museum work. Wayne Modest, Peter Pels and contributors analyze concerns around the function of museums in relation to time, inquiring whether museums can ever be successful in arresting time or setting themselves outside of time.

Narrative Objects

Museums, the Sakha Summer Festival, and Cultural Revival in Siberia

Tatiana Argounova-Low, Alison K. Brown

Series: Anthropological Studies in Creativity and Perception

Narrative Objects is concerned with the conversations that arise when artists, scholars and museum practitioners come together with historic objects. Its focus is a unique mammoth ivory model of yhyakh – the annual celebration of the Sakha people in the Russian Far East – which has been in the collection of the British Museum since 1867. Narrative Objects is particularly relevant to scholars of anthropology and museum studies as well those with an interest in the subarctic and post-Soviet states.

Post-Carbon Futures

Imagining (and Enacting) New Worlds through Transition Studies

Edited by Anna Willow, Bürge Abiral

Post-Carbon Futures: Imagining (and Enacting) New Worlds through Transition Studies explores the multitude of possibilities for conceiving and creating fulfilling post-carbon ways of life. Bringing together theoretically informed considerations, ethnographic examples, and viewpoints from active transition movement participants, this book encourages rich discussions about transition's myriad opportunities and significance for socioecological change research. It will inspire readers to contemplate how transition intersects with their own academic and/or activist interests and generate exciting new understandings of conscious cultural change in the twenty-first century.

Re-activating Indigenous Knowledge from Oral History

Landscape and Intangible Cultural Heritage in Greenland

Asta Mønsted

Series: Arctic Worlds

This book focuses on Greenlandic oral history and how to better understand people, their cultural remains, and their landscape through their own stories. It offers a way to consult Inuit oral history that opens up a perspective on houses and landscapes that may otherwise be invisible to the barren eye. Working with and re-activating Indigenous knowledge of Greenland, the study draws on more than two thousand stories collected between 1735 and 1981, preserved, and later enrolled in an online and searchable database. It will be of particular interest for scholars of Indigenous studies, anthropology, archaeology, and history.

Seeking Transcendence

The Quest for Spirituality in an Age of Detachment

Joseph C. Manzella Southern Connecticut State University, USA

Seeking Transcendence examines the various paths taken by those who have detached themselves from their traditional, institutional religious roots but are seeking non-traditional paths to spiritual experiences. Called the "nones" or non-affiliated in popular mass media these include a significant number of Western folks who maintain a belief in God or at least consider themselves "spiritual but not religious." Each chapter of the book explores these trends with a specific theme, as well as a case study based upon the author's ethnographic observation of alternative spiritual communities and practices in North America and Western Europe.

Sense-Making

New Sensory Methods for Exploring the Past and Imagining Possible Futures

Sheryl Boyle, Genevieve Collins, David Howes
Concordia University, Canada.

Series: Sensory Studies

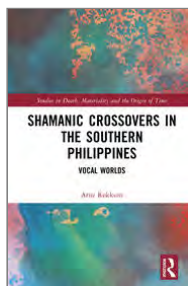

In this highly innovative work, the senses are liberated from the confines of the present to serve as vehicles for accessing other historical periods and imagined futures. Sense-Making builds on the burgeoning field of sensory ethnography by introducing a pair of methodologies—sensory (re)construction and sensorial extrapolation—expressly devised to facilitate time-travel. The first part offers a survey and critique of extant work in sensory archaeology and sensory futures. The second part presents a case study of sensory (re)construction in action, focusing on Thornbury Castle (1508-1521) in the UK.

The Multispecies Triad of Cattle Ranching

A Horseback Ethnography

Andrea Pettitt

Series: Multispecies Anthropology

This book explores the multispecies triad of cattle ranching, focusing on how humans, horses and cattle meet, interact and shape a common multispecies culture. Based on a year of horseback ethnography in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado, it provides a detailed account of the everyday lives of cowboys, cowgirls and ranchers as well as of horses and cattle. The book will be of particular interest to scholars of multispecies ethnography and human-animal relations.

The Strange Tools of Human Communication

The Voice, the Pen, and the Lyre

Ruth Finnegan

The Strange Tools of Human Communication: The Voice, the Pen, and the Lyre is an exploration of the everyday tools of communication that weaves together history, art, and science to reveal how the voice, hand, and mind shape our shared experiences. Through a blend of scholarly research, personal insights, and field experiences—from the oral tales of Sierra Leone's Limba storytellers to ancient cave art and modern iconography—this book offers fresh perspectives on how we connect across time and cultures. It is an ideal supplement to upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in cultural anthropology, sociocultural linguistics, and cultural studies.

Traditional Midwives

Cross-Cultural Perspectives

Edited by Robbie Davis-Floyd Rice University, Betty-Anne Daviss, Inayat Ali Fatima Jinnah Women University, Rawalpindi, Pakistan

Series: Social Science Perspectives on Childbirth and Reproduction

This book is a pioneering work that delves deeply into the worlds of traditional midwives, shedding light on their practices, roles, and the immense cultural value they hold within their respective communities wherever they are still allowed to practice. It champions the significance of traditional midwifery but also critiques the (often misguided) global and national initiatives that seek to move all childbirths into biomedical facilities, which, as the chapters in this book clearly show, are frequently under-equipped and under-staffed and provide substandard care that can often be obstetrically violent and abusive.

Commoning Labour and Democracy at Work

When Workers Take Over

Dario Azzellini, Marcelo Vieta

Series: Routledge Critical Development Studies

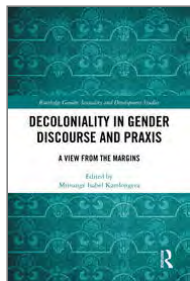

This book investigates the return of workers' self-management in recent decades as responses to recurring neoliberal crises. In particular, the book homes in on worker-recuperated enterprises (WREs), a promising form of workers' self-organization whereby workers restart troubled, bankrupt, or shuttered companies as cooperatives or other forms of democratic workplace. Bringing a class-analysis back into current discourses and debates concerning democracy at work and alternatives to global capital, this book will be of interest to researchers across the fields of development studies, labour studies, political economy, sociology of development, sociology of work, and political science.

Decoloniality in Gender Discourse and Praxis

A View from the Margins

Edited by Mtsunge Isabel Kamlongera

Series: Routledge ISS Gender, Sexuality and Development Studies

This book showcases Global South theorizations and understandings of gender. By taking voices from the margins and putting them center stage, the book provides an important example of decoloniality in action, challenging a field that continues to be rooted in Western Feminist epistemology. Each chapter presents instances of decoloniality in action, with possible retheorizations and rationalizations of how to be decolonial within gender discourse and praxis. Offering detailed empirical accounts of decoloniality in action, this book will be a useful guide for researchers of gender and post-colonial studies.

Effective Development Co-operation

New Evidence from the Global South

Edited by Debapriya Bhattacharya, Towfiqul Islam Khan Centre for Policy Dialogue (CPD), Bangladesh, Najeeba Mohammed Altaf

Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies

This book considers how development cooperation principles and practices can be made more inclusive and impactful. Amplifying voices from across the global south, the book combines key thematic discussions with new case studies spanning three continents and three key sectors: agriculture, education, and social protection. This book holds special relevance in the current political climate, where the future of development financing is increasingly contested. Global development researchers and students will benefit from the book's ingenious blending of sector-specific insights and broader discussions of the themes underpinning contemporary development cooperation debates.

Judicial Anti-Corruption Campaigns

Prosecutions in Italy, Brazil and Romania

Nedim Hagic

Series: Routledge Corruption and Anti-Corruption Studies

This book provides a comparative analysis of three cases of mass prosecutions of political corruption that have occurred in the last three decades in Italy, Brazil, and Romania. It outlines how judicial showdowns with political corruption emerge, what consequences they create, and whether they can be considered legitimate judicial operations or coups orchestrated by political forces with the assistance of the judiciary. Due to the similarities exhibited in the legal, political, and economic spheres of the events, the book explores the Italian Mani Pulite, Brazilian Lava Jato and Romanian judicial anti-corruption campaigns.

Legal Empowerment in Informal Settlements

Grassroots Experiences in the Global South

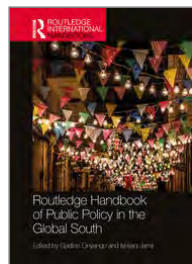

Edited by Adrian Di Giovanni, Luciana Bercovich

This book investigates grassroots, community-led justice strategies - known as legal empowerment - being used to promote the human rights of people living in informal settlements in the Global South. Residents of these settlements encounter a complex array of human rights violations; from systemic discrimination by public officials, to threats to physical security from forced evictions, or arbitrary arrests, to a lack of access to basic services such as housing, water, sanitation, and education. This book will be an important read for researchers, practitioners, and policymakers, working in realms of social and economic rights, access to justice and urban poverty and development.

Rural Development in Iran, 1960-2020

Mostafa Azkia

Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies

The book is an authoritative account of rural development in Iran, spanning sixty years and two distinct political regimes. Professor Mostafa Azkia has spent many decades demonstrating the importance of participatory rural development, not only in addressing rural problems, but also in reducing urban concerns, such as unemployment and overpopulation. This book brings together a detailed analysis of the theories, history, and strategies of rural and state development in Iran both before and after the Islamic revolution. From Iran's foremost rural sociologist this will interest researchers and professionals working on rural development and sociology in the Middle East.

Tensions In The U.S.-Mexico Borderlands

From Border Security To Local Insecurity

Cléa Fortuné

Series: Routledge Borderlands Studies

This book investigates the disconnect between what border security represents for state and non-state actors, and the social, economic, and cultural realities of the borderlanders living in U.S.-Mexico border towns. The book paints a rich picture of transborder connectedness which contrasts starkly with the rhetoric of fear and invasion used by state and non-state actors. Its findings will be of interest to researchers and students working on border studies, international relations, geography, and security studies.

The Failure of Public Finance Management in Afghanistan

Lessons for Other Conflict-Affected States

Mohammad Qadam Shah

Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies

In rebuilding conflict-affected states, a major portion of foreign aid focuses on reforming public finance management systems and supporting annual budgets. But how budgets are allocated and how reforms take shape in practice remain critical questions. This book analyses the politics of reform and budget allocation in the most expensive liberal state building effort in history: Afghanistan. The book offers key lessons on inclusive governance, structural barriers, and sustainable public finance reforms in conflict-affected states. It appeals to donors, development experts, and researchers in public finance, foreign aid, security, and development studies.

2ND EDITION

Understanding Contemporary Brazil

Jeff Garmany , Anthony Pereira King's College London

Brazil has famously been called a country of contradictions. A place where narratives of "racial democracy" exist in the face of stark inequalities, where politics can swing dramatically between the right and left, and where the natural environment is celebrated as a point of national pride, but at the same time is exploited at alarming rates. To people on the outside looking in, these contradictions seem hard to explain. Authoritative and engaging, Understanding Contemporary Brazil is ideal for university students and researchers, yet also accessible to general readers looking to learn more about one of the world's largest and most significant countries.

Urban Life in Delhi Slums

Stories of Community Solutions and Resilience

Pauline Dixon , Steve Humble University of Newcastle, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Cities and Development

This book investigates urban life in the slums of Delhi, demonstrating how individuals and communities self-organize to solve problems that arise in their neighbourhoods. This book draws on extensive qualitative and quantitative data from squatter and resettlement colonies in and around Delhi, foregrounding the voices of residents to build a bottom-up picture of place and urban development. This book's detailed assessment of slum spaces and networks will be of interest to researchers across a range of fields, including international development, geography, urban planning, politics, and sociology, as well as to policy makers and civil society organisations.

Evolution, Feminism, and Romantic Fiction

From Mr. Darcy to Mr. Big.

Ania Grant University of Auckland, New Zealand

Romantic fiction has long been dismissed as trivial and denounced for peddling supposedly patriarchal myths of heterosexual love and marriage. Despite such criticism, the popularity of romantic fiction has only increased in recent decades. The book will be of interest to anyone who ever wondered why so many women (and some men) around the world are enthralled by romantic stories, as well as to anyone who has ever been inspired by romantic happy endings to strive for a world in which men and women love and cooperate with each other—even if it seems like a utopian ideal while the war of the sexes rages on.

Feminist and Anti-caste Activism in the Bodhgaya Land Movement of Rural Bihar

"We Achieved Great Feats!"

Indulata Prasad

This book examines the long-term social, spatial, and material impacts of the Bodhgaya Land Movement (BGLM) of the 1970s and 1980s on its participants and beneficiaries, and presents an ethnography and oral history of radical feminist and anti-caste activism based on interviews with the urban, educated Vahini activists who instigated the movement and oral narratives of the rural Bhuiyan Dalit women and men who led the protests, and centres caste and gender within its examination of the movement. This book will be of use to social scientists and advanced undergraduate and graduate students in Gender Studies, Asian Studies, and other interdisciplinary fields.

Feminist Art Education Archival Research

C.H.U.T.N.E.Y. Power

Linda Hoeptner Poling, Karen Keifer-Boyd

Feminist Art Education Archival Research: C.H.U.T.N.E.Y. Power explores the National Art Education Association's Women's Caucus' histories of trailblazing feminist art education research, leadership, and policy activism. The book calls for organizational accountability from critical examination of hegemonic structures and practices that privilege white patriarchal colonialism and serves as a structure to deconstruct, interrogate, disrupt, and reimagine inequities that exist in art education, and all of education. It is a unique text ideal for feminist organizations, gender studies research, and art educators.

Feminist Language and Discourse in the British Suffrage Press

Words as Deeds

Martina Guzzetti

Feminist Language and Discourse in the British Suffrage Press: Words as Deeds explores the dynamic and evolving concept of gender within the context of British suffrage periodicals from 1907 to 1914. Adopting a (socio)linguistic perspective and a discourse analysis methodology, the book focuses on the theme of gender and on the development of feminist counter-language and counter-discourses using articles taken from the three major suffrage publications: Votes for Women, The Vote, and Common Cause. It is of value to researchers in fields such as feminist studies, language and gender studies, and periodical studies.

Feminist Studies

An Introductory Reader

Edited by Hemangini Gupta Middlebury College, USA,
Kelly Sharron, Carly Thomsen Middlebury College, USA,
Abraham Weil

Feminist Studies: An Introductory Reader introduces readers to key feminist theories and texts through a unique approach that combines both well-known classic feminist texts and original contemporary research by Feminist Studies scholars. Each chapter includes two foundational texts that commonly appear in Feminist Studies classes as well as two new texts written by scholars who engage, critique, and extend those ideas in their work. It is an ideal resource for students in introductory Feminist Studies courses, as well as those studying Women and Gender studies, sociology, and other social science.

Girls' Media in the Women's Liberation Era

Kirsten Pike

Series: Routledge Research in Gender, Sexuality, and Media

Girls' Media in the Women's Liberation Era is a critical analysis and cultural history of popular girls' media narratives produced in the U.S. between 1968 and 1980—the era of the second-wave feminist movement—and girls' responses to those narratives. Through archival research and close analysis of shows including The Brady Bunch and Family, the book highlights how liberation-era girls "talked back" on a range of media narratives and feminist issues, thus demonstrating their crucial involvement in the women's movement. It is a key text for both students and researchers in gender studies, media studies, children's media, American studies, cultural studies, and sociology.

Masculinity at the Movies

Thomas Keith

Masculinity at the Movies takes a deep dive into masculinity in film and how Hollywood movies continue to produce and promote masculine stereotypes that place boys and men in constraining patterns of behaviour. Alongside Hollywood studio productions, it delves into Black, Native American, and Latino representation as well as LGBTQ masculinity. It proposes what healthy masculinity at the movies looks like and where Hollywood should set its sights to create more progressive models of masculinity for the 21st century. It will provide students of Gender Studies, Media Studies, and Cultural Studies, with new insights into stereotypes of men in contemporary film.

Queer Migration and Drag in Japan

Queering Identity, Participation and Belonging

Phillip Hughes

Queer Migration and Drag in Japan: Queering Identity, Participation and Belonging explores how queer migration intersects with drag performance in Japan. Drawing on interviews, ethnography, and collaborative tojisha research, the book explores questions of identity and belonging, and traces how performers reclaim the "gaijin" (foreigner) label, navigate rigid work-family structures, and build coalitions linking Japan's bars to a booming global drag economy. It is ideal for both students and researchers in gender studies, migration, Japanese studies, and performance studies.

4TH EDITION

Regulating the Lives of Women

Social Welfare Policy from Colonial Times to the Present

Mimi Abramovitz

In the fourth edition of Regulating the Lives of Women: Social Welfare Policy from Colonial Times to the Present, Abramovitz traces how the welfare state regulated the lives of women from colonial times to the present. This new edition marks the most extensive overhaul to date, revising conceptual and background chapters, discussing cash assistance programs, and considering emerging ideas such as an economic crisis theory. It also considers the future of the welfare state under the second Trump Presidency. It is an essential resource for all students of social work, sociology, history, political science, public policy, women gender and black studies.

The Power of Feminist Theory

Domination, Resistance, Solidarity

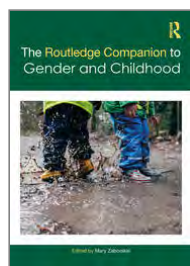

Amy Allen

In this second edition of The Power of Feminist Theory: Domination, Resistance, Solidarity, Amy Allen diagnoses the inadequacies of previous feminist conceptions of power, and draws on the work of a diverse group of theorists of power, including Michel Foucault, Judith Butler, bell hooks, and Hannah Arendt, in order to construct a new feminist conception of power. The new edition includes substantial new material on intersectionality and power, transnational feminism and power in relation to homonationalism and neo-imperialism, and empowerment feminism. It is an essential text for students engaging with feminist analyses of power, feminist theory and feminist political thought.

Witchcraft

Gendered Perspectives

Jennie Woodard

Series: Gendered Perspectives

Witchcraft: Gendered Perspectives traces the history of and evolution of the term "witch" across six centuries. Tracing the history of witchcraft from the publication of the Malleus Maleficarum to its contemporary representation and reclamation, this volume takes a gendered and intersectional approach to the cultural and historical shifts which have both demonised and democratised the witch online and in public discourse. Witchcraft: Gendered Perspectives is an invaluable resource for graduate and undergraduate students across gender studies, queer history, religious studies, media studies, and European and North American history.

Flipping the Story on Disability and Violence

People with Intellectual Disability and Allies Leading the Change

Patsie Frawley , Nancy Fitzsimons

Internationally there is a growing awareness that domestic, family, and sexual violence is a social issue that results from social structures and relational contexts that have positioned women as 'less than' men. Alongside this awareness has come social action by women and their allies that aim to change these social and relational structures using an intersectional framing of oppression. It is a must-read resource for anyone doing interpersonal violence prevention research and work and can be used as primary or supplemental reading for students doing coursework and research in disability studies, gender studies, community psychology, sociology, public health, and social work.

Learning with Learning Disability

What Learning Disability Can Teach Us About Being Human

Owen Barden

Series: Autocritical Disability Studies

This book uses the concept of "learning disability" to explore what it means to be human. It argues that we need to learn with rather than from or about learning disability. This crucial distinction means being open to what learning disability can teach us about what it means to be human. This approach comes from recognizing learning disability as an organizing concept - a concept which radically transforms our sense of what it means to be - or not be - a person. It will be of interest to all scholars and students of disability studies, the history of learning disability, humanism and posthumanism, and learning disability advocacy.

Reproduction and the Maternal Body in Literature and Culture

Bodies of Knowledge, 1726-1818

Jennifer S. Henke

Series: Routledge Advances in the Medical Humanities

This book examines a selection of texts to illuminate how midwifery, obstetrics and women's bodies were viewed during the long eighteenth century, and how these material-discursive entanglements between science, medicine, literature and culture have shaped society's views of pregnancy, childbirth and reproduction. Reproduction and the Maternal Body in Literature and Culture is an innovative and interdisciplinary contribution to the medical humanities and feminist philosophy of science, and will interest scholars from a range of backgrounds, including literature and cultural studies, midwifery, medicine and history.

Social Work and the Psychosocial Journey Out of Far-Right Extremism

Danny W. Carroll II

Series: Skills for Social Work Practice

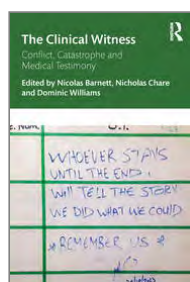

Over the last 30 years, domestic far-right extremism has risen to become the greatest threat to peace and safety in the United States. In the last few years alone, racialized, minoritized, and marginalized individuals and communities have been increasingly forced to feel the pain and experience the consequences of domestic far-right terrorism. Supposing academics, community leaders, and elected officials seek to combat the rising threat of far-right extremism in the United States, a greater focus must be paid to the lived experiences of men and women seeking to exit extremist groups.

Aerial Targeting and the Laws of War

A Socio-Legal Study of the Achievement of Compliance

Alexander P. Holder University of Liverpool, UK

Series: Directions in Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis

A ground-breaking socio-legal investigation of the in-situ legal considerations involved in targeting and the use of force, Aerial Targeting and the Laws of War develops a new kind of evidence base for international action relating to the protection of civilians. Investigating the materials surrounding a civilian casualty incident that took place in Afghanistan in 2010, the book explores how a single strike – which was conducted in light of intelligence gathered by a militarised drone crew and resulted in the deaths of at least 15 civilians – became a lawful strike.

Aerial Visibilities

New Thoughts and Further Possibilities

Edited by Dennis Zuev, Gary Bratchford

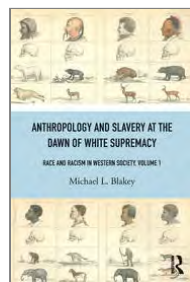

The volume brings the sky and air into the view of visual sociology and argues that there is more to the sky than phenomenological and geopolitical dimensions. The chapters use the common thread of aerial visibilities to emphasise the need to rethink the aerial in terms of complex relations between humans, technological artefacts and devices, vertical superstructures, and non-human others. This rethinking helps unsettle notions of aerial biopolitics. The chapters foreground the visual to ask to what end the image of – or efforts to create images through – vertical registers shape our understanding of the vertical world.

Anthropology and Slavery at the Dawn of White Supremacy

Race and Racism in Western Science and Society, Volume 1

Michael L. Blakey

In the first of three volumes, Anthropology and Slavery at the Dawn of White Supremacy, Michael Blakey discusses both the background and function of anthropological racism as he questions whether racism has always been with us. Using evolutionary, classical, historical, and ethnographic critique, Blakey definitively answers 'no.' The long-standing problem of racism in America, as both an obvious and hidden phenomenon, has been a developing one – with the Civil War as a watershed for American science and society, which has progressed into new versions of the old justifications (as social Darwinism) for continued racial inequity (Jim Crow segregation).

Belonging, Citizenship and Muslim Identity

A British-French Comparison

Stéphane Hlaimi University of Exeter, UK

This book explores belonging among Muslims in Britain and France, asking whether British and French Muslims are citizens first, or Muslims first. Based on in-depth interviews with Muslims in both jurisdictions, it considers three options open to Muslims - assimilation, integration or conflict - and considers the differences in approach that tend to prevail among Muslims in Britain and France. A call for a new paradigm of articulation between Muslim identity and Western citizenship, Belonging, Citizenship and Muslim Identity will be of interest to scholars of sociology, politics, geography and anthropology with interests in inclusion and diasporic communities.

Beyond Binaries and Polarization?

Rethinking Pluralist Inclusion in Immigrant Nations

Edited by Elke Winter Harvard University, USA

This book explores what lies between the statuses of insider and outsider in immigrant nations. It asks: Who is conditionally included/excluded in relation to whom, and for what reasons? What does this conditional inclusion/exclusion entail in terms of citizenship, material resources, and sense of belonging? How does it affect the cultural and economic well-being of refugees, migrants and the host society? The focus is on Canada, which is often described as the quintessential immigrant nation.

Black Veteranality

Military Service and the Illusion of Inclusive Patriotism

Bryon L. Garner

Black Veteranality is an examination of the intersection of race, patriotism, and military service from the perspective of Black veterans, offering a robust framework for reimagining American patriotism and reframing veteran identity. Through critical ethnography and narrative interviews, this conceptual framework interrogates monolithic veteran narratives by documenting how Black servicemembers simultaneously embody patriotic ideals through military service while confronting systemic racism's psychological toll and navigate a hegemonic social mechanism that perpetuates exclusion through perpetual scrutiny of Black veterans' cultural authenticity and national belonging.

Bonfire

American Sociocide, Broken Relations, and the Quest for Democracy

Charles Derber

Series: Universalizing Resistance

Bonfire: American Sociocide, Broken Relations, and the Quest for Democracy examines how new technologies and production and financial strategies are part of broader economic, environment, cultural, and political shifts that create tipping points generating more competition, distrust, isolation, and violence. In doing so, Derber spells out the implications for democracy and social cohesion. Importantly, he explores options that could stop the spiral and reconstruct a sustainable and equitable community, civil society, and democracy via emerging movements against neoliberalism capitalism, climate change, war—and in favor of labor solidarity, human rights, and community.

Citizenship in Crisis in Athens

Migration, Media and Identity

Afroditi-Maria Koulaxi London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Citizenship in Crisis in Athens explores the construction of citizen identity through embodied and mediated encounters with noncitizen migrants in the spatio-temporality of compounded crises. Drawing on ethnographic research in Athens, the book introduces innovative concepts like crisis reflexivity, culturalist reflexivity, and convivial reflexivity to examine how embodied and mediated encounters with citizens-in-the-making shape citizen identity. This book is suited for postgraduate courses in media and communications and sociology, particularly those focusing on identity, transnationalism, and migration in crisis-affected cities.

Deconstructing the Role of Generations in Social Movements

Time, Events, and Legacies

Edited by Mark Turner Manchester Metropolitan University, UK, Jan Andre Lee Ludvigsen Liverpool John Moores University, UK, Maria Grasso University of London, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Political Sociology

Although questions of how a social group's shared experiences growing up in particular historical and social contexts shapes their identities, including their political identities, have engaged sociologists of family, youth, citizenship, culture, and political change, few books have so far examined the specific role of generations and generational consciousness in social movement activism. As such, this is the first book to focus exclusively on issues of temporality, events, and generational legacies in social movements.

Dossierveillance, Collaboration, and Fear in Society

The Saga of a Journey Through the Securitate Archives and Beyond

Cristina Plamadeala McGill University, Canada

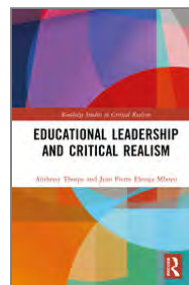

Series: Routledge Studies in Surveillance

Exploring the cultural history of surveillance practices of the Securitate, Romania's secret police during its communist period, the book blends biographical details in a historical inquiry to establish the concepts of psuchegraphy, dossierveillance, and banalization of evil in the study of Securitate Archives. The book presents a unique account of the surveillance practices of totalitarian and authoritarian regimes, expanding its relevance to fear in the current neo-liberal societies. This book will appeal to students of Eastern European history and politics, criminology, sociology, anthropology, and surveillance studies.

Emotions, Consciousness-Raising and Feminisms in the Global South

On Building Solidarity

Gabriela Silva Loureiro University of Wollongong, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in the Sociology of Emotions

This book is about the role of emotions in the creation and dissipation of feminist collectives and grapples with difficult questions that have been circulating for a while in activist circles but are far from answered. The unique feature of the book is making a bridge between sociology of emotions, feminist theory and decolonial, Black and Global South literature and praxis that articulate solidarity based on principles of difference instead of sameness. This book will be of interest to students, scholars, teachers, activists and community members interested in the emotions involved in building and sustaining feminist solidarity from a non-Western perspective.

Engagement with Culture in Transformative Times

Mapping the Societal Drivers and Impacts of Cultural Understandings, Practices, Perceptions, and Values across Europe

Edited by Susanne Janssen Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands, Nete Kristensen University of Copenhagen, Denmark, Marc Verboord Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands

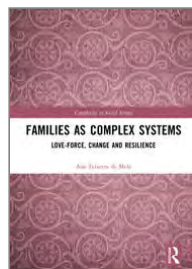

At the heart of this volume are the questions: What does culture mean to European citizens in the face of globalisation, digitalisation, diversity, and social inequality? How do Europeans engage with culture in its various forms, and what societal values are tied to this cultural engagement? These questions are explored in depth across the fifteen chapters of this book. By delving into the understandings, practices, perceptions, affordances, and impacts of culture, this book advances the study of the societal values of culture in contemporary European societies, offering insights beneficial to both research and cultural policy work.

Families as Complex Systems

Love-Force, Change and Resilience

Ana Teixeira de Melo University of Coimbra, Portugal

Series: Complexity in Social Science

The book presents an innovative framework for conceptualising families as complex systems and understanding and supporting positive change, adaptation and resilience. The development of this framework was based on a qualitative and abductive research process targeting change and resilience processes in multi-challenged families. It elaborates on the complexity of the family bonds, on the relation of Love-Force to change, resilience, and its contributions to the conceptualisation of the Potential for Family Change. As such, it will be of interest to anyone interested in the complexity of human relations and to complexity scientists, family theorists, researchers and practitioners.

Fat Studies and Fat Social Justice

Edited by Carla A. Pfeffer

This book offers examinations from the field of fat studies to consider how fat social justice has been conceptualized in the past, its status today, and how we might more effectively envision and strategize around fat social justice for the future. The contributions to this book offer reflections, provocations, and possibilities for next steps in the fight toward fat social justice today. All of the work herein attests to the power of fat people to form alliances, initiatives, self-concepts, and communities that serve to empower and affirm their dignity, worth, and to underline their deservingness of freedom from discrimination, stigma, and oppression.

Illuminating Max Weber's Sociology of Law and Methodological Writings

Collected Essays

Hubert Treiber

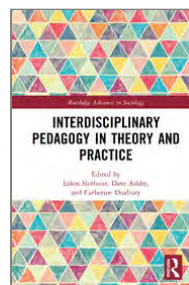

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

This volume of collected essays by Hubert Treiber, one of Weber's leading interpreters and an authoritative expert on Weber's sociology of law, brings a number of translated works to English-speaking readers, offering the opportunity to gain a fuller and a more accurate understanding of Max Weber's legal thinking. Throughout the collection, the chapters are united by the thread of Treiber's consistent attempts to provide historical contexts and to clarify Weber's legal concepts and definitions. As such, it brings together and makes accessible a new and important body of knowledge concerning Max Weber's sociology of law and will appeal to scholars and researchers in social theory.

Interviews as Activated Storytelling

Contexts and Subjectivities

Edited by Amir B. Marvasti Penn State Altoona, USA, Jaber F. Gubrium University of Missouri, USA

Series: Routledge Advances in Research Methods

Through a series of case studies, Interviews as Activated Storytelling explores how prior conceptions of the interview subject inform the process from the outset, and sheds light on the imagination, construction and use of interviewee subjectivities across a variety of social worlds. Challenging the static view of the respondent that characterizes standardized research interviews, it demonstrates that interviews are interactional, meaning-making processes that produce useful but context-sensitive knowledge. This volume will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interests in research methods and methodology, and the research interview in particular.

Invisible Seaside

A New Way of Redeeming a Utopia's Past and Imagining its Afterlife

Tony Blackshaw Sheffield Hallam University, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Invisible Seaside positions the seaside as a lens for understanding lived utopia, pinned in a certain place, an immovable feature in a landscape where our hopes and fears continue to unfold. Fusing social theory, social history and leisure studies its thesis adroitly envisions the diverse density of the seaside through a critical lens, making the unfamiliar familiar and vice versa, providing us with an exemplar for a different way of thinking sociologically, which will be used by scholars from a range of different subject fields to encourage fresh reflection on social continuity and change.

Living with Disappointment in the Face of Environmental Crisis

Resilience, Resistance, and Denial

Arne Johan Vetlesen

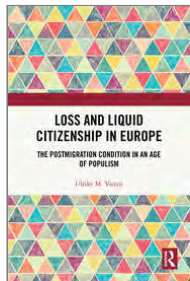

While the impacts of climate change become increasingly severe, efforts to prevent them suffer one blow after the other, as seen in the rise of far-right populist parties in Western democracies. Why does denialism thrive when blatantly contradicted by the realities before our very eyes, be it wild-fires, floods, drought and melting glaciers? A highly timely and sharp analysis of the roots of inaction and denial and possible strategies for resistance, it will appeal to scholars and upper-level students with interests in social, political and environmental philosophy and psychology, political theory, and environmental studies.

Mediated Racism and Democracy in Canada

Interrogating the News Industry, Political Systems, and Public Discourses

Ahmed Al-Rawi Simon Fraser University, Canada

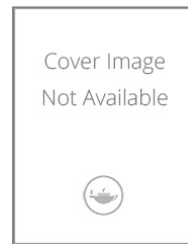

Series: Routledge Research in Race and Ethnicity

Based on studying political systems and the news industry, this book examines the tension between the hierarchical configurations of racial discrimination and the ideals of equality found in Western democracy to explore how and why the reality of racism persists in modern-day democratic societies. Taking Canada as a case study of a multicultural society, it uses a mixed methods approach to present insights from racialized politicians and journalists that explore how they navigate the issues of democracy and racism. It will therefore appeal to scholars and researchers with interests in race and racism, multiculturalism, democracy, and critical race theory.

Migration, Participation and the Making of Homes

Narrations from a "Refugees Welcome" Community Garden in Germany

Susanne Berliner Pädagogische Hochschule Heidelberg, Germany

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

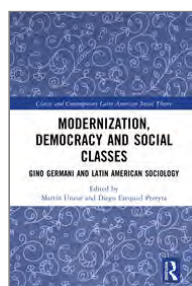

This book is an ethnographic inquiry into the complex socio-ecological relationalities in an inclusive, intercultural community garden in Germany, originally created as a "refugees welcome" project in 2015. In three ethnographic narrations, the book offers power-critical reflections on social encounters, participation, (in)equalities and the dynamics between 'the host' and 'the newcomer' in home-making. As such, the book will be of interest for researchers and university students of all levels in the field of sociology, education, social work, anthropology, political science or related fields.

Moral Panics and Social Control in the COVID-19 Pandemic

Edited by Morena Tartari, Cirrus Rinaldi, Riccardo Calderera

Series: The COVID-19 Pandemic Series

Moral Panics and Social Control in the Covid-19 Pandemic presents a series of case studies which focus on particular social processes and interactions during the COVID-19 pandemic, applying the tools offered by classical studies on moral panic and moral panic theory to illuminate both political and popular responses. Each case study explores the emergence, development, and impact of forms of moral panic in response to the coronavirus outbreak. In doing so, each chapter addresses the intersectional impact of moral panics upon vulnerable and/or stigmatised groups and outlines how moral panics have informed policies, interventions and social mechanisms introduced by governments.

Mum Fans

Identity, Feminism and Fan Culture in Contemporary China

Ye Li Swinburne University of Technology, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Gender and Society

This book explores the phenomenon of "mum fans": fans who identify themselves as their idols' mothers and participate in online, data-related fan activities termed "parenting." With over 50% active fans identifying as mum fans in China, the vast majority of whom have no children and state no desire to have children in real life, it examines their creation of a unique identity against a backdrop of conflicting and ever-evolving cultural influences.

Neoliberalism and Insecurity in Advanced Capitalism

Michael A. Long Oklahoma State University, USA, Andrew S. Fullerton Oklahoma State University, USA, Paul B. Stretesky University of Lincoln, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

This book examines the relationship between neoliberalism and insecurity beginning with the post-World War II period and continuing up through the present. It provides a theoretical and empirical analysis of how and why neoliberalism and insecurity have become intertwined over the last half century at both the structural and individual levels. As such, it will be of great interest for researchers in neoliberalism, insecurity, and Bourdieu's theory of practice – including advanced undergraduate students and graduate scholars from sociology, anthropology, geography, political science, and public health.

Not Sex Work

Queer Intimacy, Post-identity, and Incidental Encounters in the Digital Era

Max Morris Oxford Brookes University, UK

Series: Interdisciplinary Studies in Sex for Sale

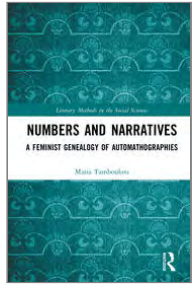

This book explores the parallel histories and intersecting politics of LGBTQ+ people and sex workers, including the role of digital media in shaping the experiences of both in the early twenty-first century. Drawing on the first empirical study with gay, bisexual, and queer young men who agreed to sell sex online without advertising or identifying as sex workers, it examines what the term 'incidental sex work' means. This book will appeal to students and researchers studying sex work and social media across a wide range of fields. It will also be useful for campaigners, policymakers, and healthcare practitioners interested in the implications of incidental sex work.

Numbers and Narratives

A Feminist Genealogy of Automathographies

Maria Tamboukou University of East London, UK

Series: Literary Methods in the Social Sciences

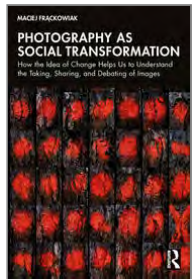

Why have there been so few women mathematicians? This book does not seek an answer in absence but in the forces, ruptures, and intensities that shape the becoming of a femme philosophe—a mathematician, scientist, and philosopher—within the shifting assemblages of eighteenth- and nineteenth-century Europe. This book will resonate with scholars in the sociology, history and philosophy of science and mathematics, particularly those engaged with feminist thought, the politics of knowledge, and experimental archival methods.

Photography as Social Transformation

How the Idea of Change Helps Us to Understand the Taking, Sharing, and Debating of Images

Maciej Frąckowiak Adam Mickiewicz University, Poland

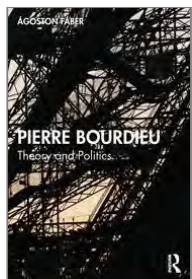

Photography as Social Transformation resituates the practices of photography within contemporary sociological thinking. It examines how photography influences and shapes social order in the social media age and offers a methodological framework for studying transformation, revealing the forms the process can take and the settings in which it occurs. Offering case studies from around the world and drawing on a range of sources, this book is for students and scholars of the sociology of media, visual sociology, photographic methods in research, media and communications, cultural studies and photography theory.

Pierre Bourdieu

Theory and Politics

Ágoston Fáber

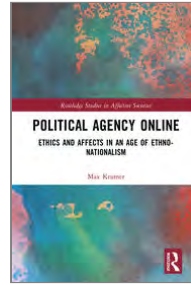

This book examines the issue of Bourdieu's so-called "political turn." It explores whether the relationship between Bourdieu's increasingly visible political engagement from the mid-1990s and his earlier scientific work should be understood in terms of continuity or discontinuity. It also considers the robustness of Bourdieu's theoretical framework and his criticisms of neoliberal capitalism from the perspective of Luc Boltanski's competing pragmatic sociology. Through a systematic discussion of Bourdieu's theory, the book offers insights into the relationship between science and politics and hopes to provide an opportunity for a deeper understanding of his work.

Political Agency Online

Ethics and Affects in an Age of Ethno-Nationalism

Max Kramer

Series: Routledge Studies in Affective Societies

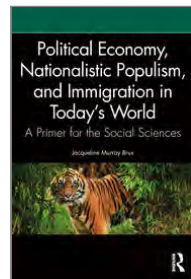

This book examines the ways that political agency can be understood in digitally dominated media environments. Kramer shows how emotional work on the online-active self is both culturally and institutionally embedded. Filling a gap in the scholarship on the affective conditions of digital agency, this book conceptualises political agency online through case studies that centre on the creativity of—and difficulties faced by—Indian Muslims who run popular handles on social media sites. The book will appeal to scholars and students interested in affect and emotion, digital and political ethics, media anthropology, South Asian studies, mediation and Muslim politics in India.

Practice Theory and Process Philosophy

Towards a Sociology of Becoming

Stanley Blue Lancaster University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

This book breaks new ground in sociological theory, presenting a process-oriented practice theory for conceptualising and studying the dynamism, interconnectedness and ongoing transformation of everyday social life. Drawing on process-inspired approaches from disciplines such as anthropology, geography and science and technology studies, it develops a framework for understanding practices not as things that change, but as ongoing processes that organise everyday life. Practice Theory and Process Philosophy is essential reading for scholars and students across the social sciences and humanities who are interested in practice theory, process philosophy and social theory.

Precarious Empowerment

Sexual Labor in the Coffee Shops of Chile's Santiago

Pilar Ortiz

Series: Cultural Spaces

Precarious Empowerment: Sexual Labor in the Coffee Shops of Chile's Santiago provides a textured and telling exploration into the lives and experiences of sex workers in Chile, their encounters with discrimination and economic precarity, and their empowered resistance. This book speaks to the much larger question of agency versus oppression in conversations about sexual labor worldwide. Its compelling analysis will captivate those interested in scholarly studies of sexual labor and the ways it is performed and shaped across hierarchies of race, class, and gender.

Race and Class in the Southwest and Other Essays

Studies in Political Economy

Edited by Rodolfo Torres, Mario Barrera, William I. Robinson

Reprinted here for the first time after becoming a modern classic of Chicano studies, Race and Class in the Southwest focuses on the economic foundations of inequality as they have affected Chicanos in the Southwest from the Mexican-American War to the present. Barrera reviews the economic history of Chicanos, their relegation to a subordinate position in the labor force segmented along racial lines, their displacement from the land, the effects of waves of immigration from Mexico, the role of an emerging Chicano middle class, and state policies designed to reproduce the subordinate status of Chicanos.

Racial Segregation and Eugenic Science Between the Wars

Michael L. Blakey

This volume examines the rise and decline of racial science and its relationship to the political and social imposition of Jim Crow in the American South, a racialized code of laws grounded upon an inherently racist and prejudicial pseudoscience. The author argues, here, that the study of human beings within the emerging 18th and 19th century institutions of Western science were corrupted by the limited social intuitions of its enslaving, colonizing, and elitist members.

2ND EDITION

Racism in the Neoliberal Era

A Meta History of Elite White Power

Randolph Hohle SUNY Fredonia, USA

Series: New Critical Viewpoints on Society

Racism in the Neoliberal Era explains how simple racial binaries like black/white are no longer sufficient to explain the persistence of racism, capitalism, and elite white power. This new edition is thoroughly revised and updated to take account of the further history and debates over neoliberalism in the Trump and Biden eras, and the significant social and political discussions around race and racism, policing, housing, health care, and citizenship as they interconnect with the American neoliberal economic and political system. The new edition will be a vital textbook for students, instructors, and researchers in sociology, politics, race, and economics.

Racist America

Roots, Current Realities, and Future Reparations

Joe R. Feagin Texas A&M University, USA, Kimberley Ducey University of Winnipeg, Canada

Expanding the discussion on racialized intersectionality, as well as on the white racial frame, elite-white-male dominance system, and antiracist action, this book details how these racism realities continue to impact black, Latino, Asian, Indigenous, and white Americans. The book explains how and why Black Lives Matter movement and other antiracist protests have erupted; how and why Latino, Asian, and Indigenous Americans have responded to expanding racist discrimination; and how and why a diverse array of Americans has demanded major societal responses to dismantle entrenched white racism.

Reimagining Social Justice Scholarship

Creative Decolonial Feminisms in South Africa and Beyond

Edited by Tamara Shefer University of the Western Cape, South Africa, Carmine Rustin University of the Western Cape, South Africa, Floretta Boonzaier University of Cape Town, South Africa

Series: Routledge Advances in Feminist Studies and Intersectionality

Showcasing creative decolonial feminist and critical social justice scholarship, located in a South African context, this book works across modalities and disciplines, and within art and activism, to challenge hegemonic and oppressive forms of gender and sexuality. It seeks to make a scholarly intervention founded on rethinking its own grounds through collaborations with knowledges often deployed by those outside the authoritative, 'expert' domains of academia, aligning it with feminist and decolonial aims. A valuable resource for students and scholars of gender, sexuality and intersectionality, particularly those with a focus on the global south.

Reintroducing Talcott Parsons

James J. Chriss Cleveland State University, USA

Series: Reintroducing...

This book examines the contributions made by Talcott Parsons to sociology over the course of a career spanning half a century. Summarizing the development of Parsons' thought, it shows how his work on the conceptualization of the social world via the unifying structure of four functions—adaptation, goal-attainment, integration, and latent pattern maintenance (or AGIL)—can further the goal of explanation and understanding social phenomena. Reintroducing Talcott Parsons will appeal to scholars and students of sociology with interests in social theory and the history of social thought.

Re-Reading Pareto on Elite Power and Societal Bipolarisation

A Critical Perspective on Metapolitics and Democracy

Alasdair J. Marshall

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

Assessing Vilfredo Pareto's sociological reworkings of Machiavelli's Fox and Lion animal spirits as friend-enemy codings, this book offers a unique insight into the growing division today between relatively liberal elites and relatively conservative non-elites. Re-Reading Pareto on Elite Power and Societal Bipolarisation utilises key ideas common to Pareto's elite theory, general sociology and theory of demagogic plutocracy, and fleshes out a unique perspective for making sense of contemporary societal bipolarisation in terms of friend-enemy codings.

Resisting Post-Truth Society

Political Humans

Victor Jeleniewski Seidler Goldsmiths, University of London, UK

This book explores the crisis of democracy and the rise of populist and authoritarian politics in the West. With attention to the Brexit referendum in the UK and the election of President Trump in the US – events that reflected wider movements across the world the book traces shifting resistance to globalisation and globalised media in increasingly polarised societies. Examining the role of social media in increasingly polarised societies as they respond to multiple crises – COVID-19, mass migrations, growing inequalities or an intensifying climate emergency, this book will appeal to scholars of sociology, philosophy, politics, media and communications and gender studies.

Romani People in Italy

The Different Shades of Segregation

Vincenzo Romania University of Padua, Italy, Tommaso Bertazzo University of Padua, Italy

Series: Routledge Research in Race and Ethnicity

Romani People in Italy offers an in-depth, updated, and detailed analysis of the segregated condition of Romani people in Italy. The different shades of segregation take the form of housing, educational and social isolation. It contributes to the understanding of the reality of Romani camps in terms of a space that produces habitus of isolation, but also positive forms of resistance to neoliberal logics of individualization. As such, it is suitable for courses in ethnic studies, minority studies, migration studies, urban studies, and Romani studies.

Safer Spaces, Feminist Movements and Emotions

Affect into Action

Giada Bonu Rosenkranz Scuola Normale Superiore, Italy
Series: The Mobilization Series on Social Movements, Protest, and Culture

Drawing on a participatory action research conducted in Italy and Spain among feminist spaces, this book examines the production of safer spaces and the underlying infrastructure of affect and emotions that shape, enable, and support collective action. By challenging a binary understanding of safe spaces, it presents a dynamic conceptualization of safety within feminist movements, and argues that the work on affect and emotions within feminist spaces has transformative effects, by increasing the potential for collective action. As such, it will appeal to scholars of political science and sociology with interests in social movements, gender and democracy.

A New Theory

Adrian Scribano Universidad de Buenos Aires, Argentina*Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology*

This book explores the sociology of hope. It presents an overview of the 'state of the art' of hope in sociology and proposes a new basic theory of hope linked to the classical theoretical traditions of sociology, to the perspective of its founding women, and to the reconstruction of the contributions of the theories of revolution, utopia, social change and collective action. As such the book will appeal to scholars and students inter-ested in emotions, particularly from the disciplines of sociology, anthropology, political science, and psychology.

A Concise Guide to Contemporary Sociology

Phil Zuckerman

This concise, clear, accessible book is meant to truly engage students by using personal stories, solid research, and key theories that illustrate how sociologists look at life, the way we understand social dynamics, what "socially constructed" means, and how a sociological sensibility can, ultimately, be liberating. With engaging stories, provocative historical examples, compelling case studies, and key theoretical insights, this cogent "anti-textbook", written by leading sociologist Phil Zuckerman, introduces students to the discipline of sociology.

Solving Crises in Capitalism and Democracy

Inter-Organizational Networks, Social Inequality, and Populism

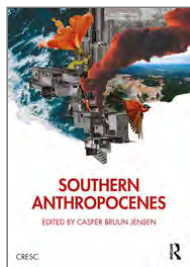

Jerald Hage University of Maryland, USA, Wilbur C. Hadden University of Maryland, USA

As a new mode of coordination, systematic coordinated inter-organizational networks provide a platform for continued dialogue among diverse viewpoints, decentralize problem solving, and stimulate considerable organizational adaptiveness. This macro sociological theory offers policy guidelines that might lead to future jobs for sociologists, provide tools to overcome managerial satisficing, and speed responses to change. A detailed case study is provided with a discussion of the feasibility of creating SCIONs, and whether or not elites will resist this new coordination mode.

Southern Anthropocenes

Edited by Casper Bruun Jensen

Series: CRESC

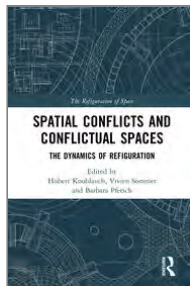

This wide ranging volume addresses the changing landscape of problems, challenges, and possibilities that emerge once the macroscopic notion of the Anthropocene is replaced with Southern Anthropocenes. It envisions Southern Anthropocenes as an opening towards forms and ends of life that exceeds—while remaining in partial relation with—modern socio-economic horizons and the determinations of the geo-, eco-, and climate sciences. It will be essential reading for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students in Sociology, Anthropology, Critical Education, Environmental Humanities, Science and Technology Studies, Geography and Urban Studies.

Structural Racism

The Dynamics of Opportunity and Race in America

Stephen Menendian

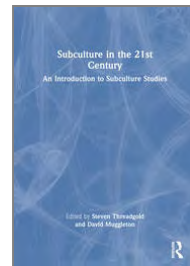

This book explains how racial inequality in the United States is maintained and perpetuated from a structural perspective and offers comprehensive systemic solutions. It develops the concept of 'structural racism', presenting a precise definition that is more easily comprehensible, and illustrates how it operates methodically and rigorously. Many other books are long on problems and short on solutions, whereas this book develops the key principles that must ground a policy reform agenda, and then presents a set of interventions organized around ten themes that will reduce racial disparities while expanding opportunity for all. A must read for advocates, students and researchers alike.

The Adoption of Artificial Intelligence and Inertia in Higher Education

Exploring Complex Resistance to Technological Change

James Hutson

Series: Routledge Research in the Sociology of Education

This research monograph explores the complex resistance to integrating Artificial Intelligence (AI) within higher education institutions. Despite the significant potential of AI to enhance education, faculty adoption remains inconsistent and is often met with skepticism. It points to actionable strategies for overcoming these barriers, and will be relevant for scholars, researchers, advanced students and educators grappling with issues navigating technological integration in academia, and with interests in the sociology of education, educational technology, and higher education administration.

The COVID-19 Pandemic and Older Adults

Early Responses and Continuing Impacts

Edited by Edward Alan Miller University of Massachusetts Boston, USA

The rapid onset of the COVID-19 pandemic presented a multi-faceted challenge to older adults, carers, and care institutions globally. Despite a wide range of policies aimed at protecting older adults from COVID-19, they continue to bear the burden of risk for these most severe outcomes. Additionally, some early efforts to protect them, often via extreme isolation measures, yielded unanticipated health and psychosocial impacts. Governments, agencies, and aging services organizations will benefit from fully incorporating the lessons into future emergency response efforts, considering their consequences across different subpopulations, organization and policy contexts.

The French Revolution and Its Legacy

Leaping Democracy into the Unlimited

Camil Francisc Roman John Cabot University, Rome, Italy

Series: Contemporary Liminality

This book examines the French revolution from an anthropological perspective, eschewing an analysis in terms of 'good' and 'bad' actors, or progressive and non-progressive forces, and adopting instead the frame of liminality. In using the concept of liminality, the author focuses on human experience and so reintroduces the notion of the sacred into the analysis, thus explaining the iconic political event of political modernity in terms of a transformation of the sacred and restoring metaphysics to the social sciences.

The New Social Contract Between Generations

Profiguration

Fidel Molina-Luque University of Lleida, Spain

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

The cornerstone of this book is the innovative concept of profiguration, a term coined by Fidel Molina-Luque to encapsulate the essential agreement and recognition required between generations in contemporary society. Profiguration emphasises the intrinsic value of interdependence across all age groups, fostering a holistic life experience for the young, adults, and the elderly. Tailored to engage scholars, professionals, and students alike, its accessible concepts are comprehensible and applicable across the following fields: Sociology, Anthropology, Social Work, Education, Law and Business Administration and Health studies (Medicine, Nursing, Physiotherapy).

2ND EDITION

The Pains of Mass Imprisonment

Benjamin Fleury-Steiner University of Delaware, USA, Jamie Longazel

Series: Framing 21st Century Social Issues

Fleury-Steiner and Longazel emphasize the magnitude of mass imprisonment in the United States, especially of people of color, not by objective statistics and trends, but by the voices and lived experiences of individuals who live their harsh conditions on a daily basis. This is an ideal book for courses in corrections, social problems, criminology, and prisoner re-entry. This new edition dramatically expands and revises the previous edition to include more empirical data, significant engagement with current debates and scholarship, and extended pedagogical and learning materials.

The Pragmatics of Precarious Work

Security and Vulnerability in the Pandemic Economy

Krzysztof Z. Jankowski

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Drawing on data collected in London's precarious labour market during the Covid-19 pandemic, this book explores how precarious work is pragmatically engaged with towards the production of simultaneous security and insecurity. The analysis spans the full of scope of precarious working: procedures of job searching and applying, conducting duties and becoming acclimatised to the workplace, and exercises of chaining precarious jobs together or planning an exit into permanent and full-time work. Its ethnographic data regarding the practicalities of precarious work is highly relevant to scholars studying sociology of work, social policy and organizational studies.

The Social Life of Skills in the Global South

Edited by Trent Brown International University of Japan, Japan, Geert De Neve

Series: ThirdWorlds

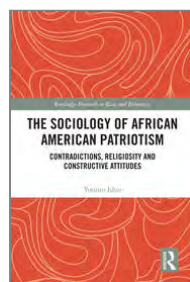

This book expands understandings of how skills are defined, acquired, and utilized in global South contexts. Skills' and 'skill development' are increasingly prominent focal points for governments in the global South and international development bodies. Yet, policymakers and practitioners promoting skill development often overlook the everyday realities of how skills are learned and acquired, and how they are deployed and valued by individuals and communities. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly.

Transnationality and Social Mobility

Navigating Social Structures

Lisa Bonfert University of Luxembourg, Luxembourg

Series: Studies in Migration and Diaspora

Considering that changes in people's life chances are increasingly shaped by cross-border movements and transnational connections, this book proposes a transnational conception of social mobility. Emphasising the manifold ways in which contexts of migration and transnationality affect perceptions and evaluations of betterment, the book argues for linking the study of social and spatial mobility to better capture how people navigate social structures of inequality in a globalised world. This book will therefore be of interest to scholars of sociology, geography and politics with interests in migration, transnationalism and mobility.

Unmarking Whiteness and the New American Racism

Michael L. Blakey

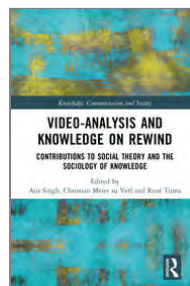

This book criticizes recent performative solutions to racism ('diversity' programs at universities, for example) and White people's 'fragility' or intolerance of mature criticism. These ideas are locked in an intellectually gated and defensive conversation that effectively denies the ongoing, particular abuses of White supremacy. The book instead proposes expensive educational and economic changes (including reparations) as necessary to achieve real equity.

Workers Without Companies

Towards a New Way of Working

Sylvie Célérier University of Lille, France, Alberto Riesco-Sanz Complutense University of Madrid, Spain

Series: Routledge Studies in the Sociology of Work, Professions and Organisations

Workers Without Companies contributes to the debate on the future of work in a productive landscape that is now global, while ways of working diversify at an unprecedented pace. Faced with several decades of mass unemployment in Europe and the activation of self-employment – especially through intermediary platforms – this book examines the transformation of the wage system not only in traditional salaried sectors but also in self-employment, agriculture, and the field of science and knowledge production. As such, Workers Without Companies will appeal to sociologists with interests in work and industry, employment and unemployment, organisation studies and labour relations.
