Artificial Intelligence and Neuroenhancement in Sport

Edited by Alberto Carrio Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain
Series: Ethics and Sport

This book is the first to take a close look at artificial intelligence and neuroenhancement in the context of sport, and at the potential of new technologies to act as enablers of neurodoping. Exploring fascinating topics including neurostimulation, brain-chips, cyborgisation and the importance of establishing sound ethical regulations, the book takes a positive ethical view, seeing the lack of previous work in this area as an opportunity to embed ethics in sports technology and promote AI for good in sport. This book is important reading for any advanced student, researcher, administrator or policy-maker with an interest in the ethics of sport.

Integrative Sport and Exercise Nutrition

A Practitioner's Perspective

Edited by Ian Craig, Justin Roberts

The key objective of Integrative Sport and Exercise Nutrition: is to teach sport, exercise and nutrition professionals, academics and students to embrace the complexity and individuality of an exercising person. This approach will add to, but may also contrast with, the reductionist macronutrient approach taken in this field. By bringing together writers and editors, from both academia and applied clinical practice, this cutting edge book bridges the gap between accepted quantitative 'norms' and the applied integrative practice of talented practitioners who support unique beings with sport and exercise goals.

From the Tourist's Gaze

Holiday Home Movies as Vernacular Sources for the Ecocritical Thought

Pietro Agnoletto

Series: Routledge Insights in Tourism Series

From the Tourist's Gaze bridges environmental humanities and amateur cinema studies, exploring tourism-induced environmental issues through the visual representations created by tourists themselves. As a visual journey through mid-20th century Italian tourism and its environmental narratives, it may interest cultural geographers, tourism and media scholars, and the broader group of environmental humanists: the latter will have the opportunity to explore amateur cinema as an untapped resource for understanding cultural narratives, while amateur cinema scholars will have an example of a fresh and different approach to their subject.

The Practical Guide to Managing Human Resources in Hospitality, Hotels and Events

Jennifer Kaye

Series: The Practical Guide to Events and Hotel Management Series

The hospitality industry is one of the fastest growing industries globally, incorporating hotels and other lodgings, restaurants, cafés, pubs/bars, and nightclubs. Hospitality is interrelated with events and travel industries, with food and drink offerings, transport, and accommodation often needed, alongside events. The key factors for Human Resources to consider when implementing a change regarding roles within an organisation, is clear, consistent, and open communication towards current team members. This is essential as it ensures our current team feel reassured throughout the process of receiving a new manager and member of the executive team.

Visitors, Settler Colonialism and Aboriginal Cultural Heritage

Australian Protected Areas as Transformative Landscapes

Vanessa Whittington

Series: Critical Studies in Heritage, Emotion and Affect

This book analyses visitor responses to the interpretation of Aboriginal cultural heritage in Australian protected areas, focusing on Uluru-Kata Tjuta National Park in the Northern Territory and the Greater Blue Mountains World Heritage Area in New South Wales. It is aimed at students and academics attempting to develop a more critical practice in relation to heritage interpretation, tourism, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultural heritage and settler-colonialism. It will also have appeal to heritage professionals, cultural tour operators and agencies responsible for the provision of protected area interpretation, including both government sector and Indigenous organisations.
